Another death today brought the total to 30 killed in the explosion of a 110 DeHavilland jet at Farnborough, Eng., Saturday. A Reuters dispatch from London quotes an official of the DeHavilland company that an an-

70-SECOND BUSS FROM MAMA

First Japanese War Bride Gets Warm Depot Welcome

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., Sept. 10 (CP).—Pte. E. M. MacMillan and his wife, the first Japanese bride of a Canadian serviceman to come to Canada, arrived home early today by train.

The diminutive 23-year-old bride of a year and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Leo Venne of Medicine Hat, clinched in a 70-second buss on the station platform.

The Japanese girl sobbed "Mama, Mama, Mama" as she flung herself into the arms of her young army husband's mother.

It was the first sign of emotion by Ekubo, which in English means "dimples," the nickname given his wife by 22-year-old Earl (Sonny) MacMillan—since the 30-hour train ride started in Vancouver.

More than 300 persons were on the platform to welcome the pair at 1.10 a.m. The couple then was whisked by relatives to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hashizume, market gardeners here, for a lavish Oriental meal featuring sweet and sour chow mein.

Previously, a large-scale welcome and presentation of gifts was made at the Calgary C.P.R. depot Tuesday night. But several Japanese folk assembled at the Brooks station about 50 miles west of here had to settle for sign-language greetings through the Pullman coach windows when the train stopped there for only a minute.

Canadians To Face Grand Jury

53 Arrested in Visa Racket

DETROIT, Sept. 10 (AP).—District Attorney Philip A. Hart said he expects to present to a federal grand jury today the first cases involving 100 Canadians accused of entering the United States on fraudulent visas.

Immigration authorities rounded up 53 Canadians here Tuesday following an investigation of an alleged wholesale visa racket. About 50 others were expected to be arrested.

The Canadians are alleged to have made false statements of financial worth to gain entrance to the U.S. through the border city of Windsor, Ont., across the Detroit River.

The U.S. attorney general, James McGranery, announced in Washington Tuesday night that he expected Hart to present evidence of the parts played by Roy H. McBride, Windsor Bank official, and two visa consultants, Mrs. Marguerite M. Prest and Mrs. Aline Steigerwald, in obtaining visas for Canadians.

All but three of the aliens rounded up Tuesday were released on bond or paroled pending decisions in their cases.

McGranery, in his statement, said Detroit immigration officials "will continue to apprehend any remaining aliens who have obtained visas through fraud." He said an immigration officers' appeal board has upheld a finding that Eugene Glasco, the first person seized, should be deported. Glasco's hearing was regarded as a test case, as was that of Lawrence E. McKinnon.

The justice department said McBride, branch manager of the Provincial Bank of Canada at Windsor, had admitted issuing false information concerning Glasco's finances.

Peter Donald Wounded In Korea

Trooper Peter Donald, son of Capt. C. D. Donald, R.C.N., and Mrs. Donald, of Deep Cove, has been wounded in action in Korea. This was reported in a telegram from the National Defense Department to his wife, Mary, 1960 Ernest Avenue. She is the daughter of Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. Eric Parker, secretary of the British branch of the Canadian Legion.

The wire said that Tpr. Donald, well known in local college athletic circles, received a shrapnel wound in the upper chest "which penetrated to the rear."

Tpr. Donald joined the 25th Special Canadian Brigade late last year and left for the battle-front early this year. He is with the Lord Strathcona Horse tank regiment.

Budget at Peak Says St. Laurent

ELECTION CALL WITHIN 10 DAYS IS FORECAST

Social Credit Said Preparing for Vote

Political circles here are convinced that Premier W. A. C. Bennett will ask for another general election in B.C. within the next 10 days.

The premier, whose formal statements have been limited to the argument as to his right to ask for a dissolution, is keeping his own counsel on making a public declaration.

But it is definitely known that supporters of the Social Credit movement have been tipped off to get ready for the poll, probably in mid-November.

MUST MOVE SOON

Provisions of the Election Act require that to have an election by that time, the premier will have to make his move by about the end of next week or early the following week.

It is usually considered that 63 days is required between the calling of an election and the balloting, but this time can be cut down by 10 days or more if the voters' lists used for the June election are used again without revision.

Thus, the premier can still hold off an announcement on a mid-November election until the last week or so of this month.

NEW CANDIDATES

Meanwhile, the Social Credit organizations throughout the province are grooming new candidates for the contest. Some of those who ran unsuccessfully in June will be replaced by stronger aspirants.

The premier, his supporters say, is convinced he could sweep the province in a new election and increase his present shaky representation of 19 to 30 or 35 members.

The statement of Liberal spokesman W. T. Straith that the Liberals in general would support the Social Credit government for the time being—and thus enable Mr. Bennett to call a session—has not changed the premier's stand for a new election, these sources say.

He is quite prepared to risk a constitutional crisis in the hope of putting the political structure of the province on a solid basis with a majority government, intimates feel.

South African Court Backs Disputed Act

JOHANNESBURG, Sept. 10 (AP).—The Supreme Court Tuesday dismissed an application by labor leader E. S. Sachs to declare invalid government action taken against him under the Suppression of Communism Act.

CAUGHT IN CANADA'S SPY PROBE

U.K. Scientist, Jailed For Spying, Near Freedom

LONDON, Sept. 10 (CP).—Dr. Alan Nunn May, the western world's first atomic traitor, is due for release from prison in December, a Home Office spokesman said today.

May, now 41, was convicted in 1946 of giving information about British atomic research to Russian agents and sentenced to 10 years. His arrest was an outgrowth of Canada's spy probe.

By December he will have served 6½ years and will be eligible for his freedom under the good-conduct rules of the British penal code.

May, a physicist, worked in Montreal and Chalk River, Ont., in the early days of Canada's atomic effort.

Slow-Down of Social Legislation Indicated

By NORMAN M. MACLEOD

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 10 (BUP).—Declaring Canada's spending budget to be at a top limit even for boom times, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent indicated strongly today that the government proposes to call a halt to the recent rapid pace of social legislation.

"We recognize," the Prime Minister told a crowded luncheon meeting of the Canadian Club, "that the $4,500,000,000 budget we have this year is just about the limit even under the present buoyant phase of our economy if we are to pay for our services as we use them and at the same time preserve a general healthy economy."

He continued: "The services provided by government must be closely related to the general prosperity of the nation. And in considering any new proposal for expenditure, the government must ascertain whether there will be revenues to pay for it not only when the level of national revenue is high and the revenue-bearing sources are plentiful, but also if there is a lower degree of prosperity and sources of revenue are less fruitful."

"It's policy, in other words, must take into consideration the probable fluctuations of prosperity over a long period. It is my view that the fiscal policies of the national government should also be shaped to counteract any strains that may appear in the general economy."

On his arrival in Winnipeg for what is his last speaking engagement on the western end of his two weeks' "good will" tour Mr. St. Laurent made his most definite statement so far on the probable date of the forthcoming election.

Confident

Still weary from 24-hour vigil following the sinking of his ship, Capt. Graham O. Hughes of ill-fated Princess Kathleen, is confident the hulk can be raised.

Kathleen's Fate Rests On Divers

Plans for Replacing Ship Await Talks

Plans for replacing Princess Kathleen, sunk in Lynn Channel, Alaska, on Sunday, will not come under active discussion by the C.P.R. until divers' reports indicate whether or not the cruise ship can be salvaged.

According to a spokesman in Vancouver, the company hopes it will be able to re-float the ship and make her ready for service.

"Of course, we won't know anything at all definite until our men, and the salvage experts, reach the scene," he said. "If it looks as though she can be raised, we'll have to work out temporary schedules for our other ships on the Island ferry service until Kathleen is ready again."

"All our plans at present wait full reports from Alaska."

Capt. Oliver J. Williams, manager of B.C. Coast Service, leaves Seattle by air Thursday morning with a party of surveyors and salvage experts. Divers are already at work, examining the ship where she lies on a gentle slope, with a slight port list.

The company's enquiry into the shipwreck continues in Victoria today, to be followed by a Department of Transport hearing in Vancouver, and a U.S. Coast Guard hearing in Seattle.

Election Unlikely Until Year From Now

With his usual cautious preliminary that "events at any time may make an election desirable," he told the Winnipeg reporters who interviewed him on his arrival at the station: "But I don't see how it would be convenient to have an election before a year from now, because there seems to be enough things on the agenda within that period to make it one of sufficient activity without an election being added to the list. After that period the outlook ought to be clearer."

In today's address to the Canadian Club, the Prime Minister discussed the question as to whether or not the taxpayer was getting value for his dollar in government services.

On the question of defense spending, he assured his audience that expenditures were being carefully and efficiently made to ensure the maximum possible return. But he warned that modern war equipment was costly, and that maintenance of men abroad in Korea and in Europe could never be an inexpensive policy. Nevertheless, he was confident that the government had the support of the Canadian people in its entire preparedness program.

"The insurance premium we are paying for peace," he told his audience, "is admittedly high, but the risk is unhappily very great, and it is the risk that determines the premium."

People's Wishes Must Be Followed

In regard to social services of more recent origin, the Prime Minister laid down the principle that they were provided in response to public demand, and that the government's responsibility was to see that their administration was as economical as possible.

He told the Canadian Club that no check was omitted to guarantee that the services were efficiently and economically administered.

"But," he said frankly, "no government is likely to reduce or eliminate services which it has the capacity to provide so long as the people want the services badly enough to be willing to pay for them. What is more, if we really believe in the democratic principle that the people should control the government, no government should attempt to do so, as long as the people continue to be willing to be taxed for the services they receive."

In earlier parts of his speech, Mr. St. Laurent dealt with the large surpluses which prevailing rates of taxation have rolled up in recent years. He argued that the term "surplus" was really a misnomer so long as the nation had a heavy burden of national debt waiting to be paid off. He further took credit to the government for having estimated the business situation conservatively in each year, with the result that better conditions than had been depended upon had brought greater revenues than had been expected.

The fact that the high revenues had been the result of a higher level of business had meant, the Prime Minister said, that people had been left better off, even after paying so-called surplus revenues in to the treasury.

Toronto Police Fear Gang May Free Pals

Double Guards About Jail; Clues Reported 'Few'; No New Leads on Whereabouts of Desperadoes

TORONTO, Sept. 10 (CP).—Col. Hedley Basher, Ontario's deputy minister of reform institutions, took over the job of running the Don Jail with a squad of provincial police for guards today as police pressed their search for Edwin Boyd and his gang.

Police admitted they had few clues on the whereabouts of the four men who broke out of jail Monday. However, some officers said they believe they are still in Toronto.

Police said they fear an attempt may be made to free other gang members from the jail. They doubled the city police guard outside the jail. A dozen provincial police officers were placed in the jail to replace six guards suspended Tuesday along with the jail governor and deputy governor.

As Judge Iaf MacDonnell prepared to start his royal commission inquiry into the jail break, Col. Basher said he would retain control of the jail "until this whole mess is straightened out."

The search for Boyd and the three other escaped prisoners—Steve Suchan, Leonard Jackson and William Russell Jackson—has reached into cities and towns hundreds of miles from Toronto.

Police set up road blocks and checked dozens of cars. A number of tips by citizens that they had seen one or more of the men were investigated but in all cases proved fruitless.

SEARCHING CARS

At Camp Borden military camp army officials announced

all cars leaving Camp Borden today were being searched for guns because of the escape.

Major W. E. Leach, camp adjutant, said: "The last time the four men were caught they possessed small arms stolen at our camp. We're not taking any chances this time."

Provincial police took over guard duty at the 88-year-old Don Jail where the governor, deputy governor and six guards were suspended Tuesday after the preliminary inquiry into the break.

Bank Bandits Strike Twice In Montreal

MONTREAL, Sept. 10 (BUP).—Bank bandits struck twice within three hours in Montreal today, escaping with an estimated $7,500.

One bandit held up the main St. James Street branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada and robbed it of $1,500 and less than three hours later two bandits stole $6,000 from a branch of the Bank of Commerce.

Police say there is no indication the robberies were carried out by the same gang.

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

Courtney Riley Cooper, who in his lifetime had done a fair amount of research on the subject, used to question the financial logic of the slogan: "Crime Does Not Pay." On a cash receipts basis he may have had a point.

Partly because I don't like feeling guilty and partly because I scare easily, I've never been able to see any percentage in crime. My only successful recent robberies have been performed on the young sprout's jar of jaw-breakers. Frankly the rewards haven't justified the trouble. Jaw-breakers aren't worth stealing. I only took them to save the children's teeth.

Anyhow, whatever the reason—and it isn't saintliness—I don't think I'd make a very good criminal. I don't understand why other people are. Sure, I know about Robin Hood and Dick Turpin, and I like both of them—in stories. But I can't help contrasting them with the young fellow some friends of mine were discussing in a case study the other night.

They'd been helping him after he came out of jail a few months ago. His history read like a social service worker's Example A. When he was a kid, third in a family of five, he'd had alcoholic parents. When the old man wasn't in jail, he was drunk or beating his wife. When she wasn't defending herself, she was drunk and beating up the kids. You sensed that there may have been some flashes of animal affection in the family, but they weren't sustained long enough to do any good.

As a Twig Is Bent

Finally the mother died violently. She had been drinking and beating one of the youngsters when she lost her balance and fell downstairs, breaking her neck. The father was in jail at the time and the youngster, not quite into his teens, was sent to a foster-home. He started a long series of escapes. He ran away from his foster home and he's been running away ever since, from industrial schools, jobs and jails.

He's still fairly young, but he's spent more of the latter half of his life in jails than out.

When he came out the last time, my friends took hold of him, found him a job he liked and kept him on his activities. He seemed to be getting along well. His employers liked him, gave him a raise, and the crowd he was working with made him feel at home.

That lasted three months. Then he found himself a girl friend who wasn't the kind of girl friend calculated to assist his rehabilitation. He packed up and left his job. Now he's back in a big town and my friends are waiting to hear of the next development, which they figure is inevitable. Any day they expect to learn he's receiving board and lodgings at the expense of the state.

You try to figure out the purpose of my friends' work in terms of material logic. You can say this: For three months the young man was behaving like a citizen. It isn't very long, but it's something. During that time he wasn't preying on society.

And if, as they say, there's some good in everybody, he ought to be able to recognize the opportunity he's been given. Possibly it might make him want to straighten himself out and take a flyer at trying to be happy though honest.

Remote, But Worth a Try

That may be a remote possibility. Just the same it's one my friends hope for and they'd be ready to try again to help the man if he returned to them.

Why? Well, they'll give you a few practical reasons. In the first place, if there's a chance to straighten out a thief it's economically worth taking. Thieves cost their victims money by taking things that don't belong to them. They cost the taxpayer money trying to catch them. They cost money for their keep. They're expensive to society, my friends would say.

But that isn't the main reason why my friends would try again. They may not phrase their attitude in Biblical language, but deep down, they'd like to do something to help people they think are unfortunate. They'd like to show them what they're missing by being thugs and bums. They'd like to help them to appreciate the simple and satisfying pleasures of decency.

They want to act like human beings to other human beings—and they've had enough experience to know that most of the public wants to do the same thing. That's why the public supports outfits like the John Howard Society.

As far as results are concerned, my friends may be betting on the long shots. They don't often come in. But when they do, the pay-off looks mighty big.

Petition Demanding Removal Of Seamen's Head Reported

MONTREAL, Sept. 10 (CP)—The Gazette in a front-page story today says a petition demanding removal of Hal C. Banks, Canadian director of the Seafarers International Union (A.F.L.), is being circulated by former union members who claim to have 400 signatures.

James Todd, who claims to be the last union official elected before Banks' appointment four years ago, heads the group which said the Canadian director has placed more than 2,000 of the 10,000 members on a "do not ship" list. Masters of ships are forbidden by the union to hire any seaman placed on this list.

The petition said Mr. Banks does not allow the membership to conduct regular union meetings; that no financial statements are issued and that seamen placed on the "do not ship" list must come to Montreal at their own expense to see the director.

Test of 'Hell' Bomb Forecast

U.S. Said Ready To Explode Hydrogen Weapon at Eniwetok in Next Two Months

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—A test of the world's first hydrogen "hell" bomb may be made during the next two months at the United States carefully guarded nuclear weapons proving ground in mid-Pacific.

A Joint Atomic Energy Commission-defense department announcement says a task force will "conduct tests in the Autumn months of this year looking toward development of atomic weapons." The announcement left open the question of the specific types of atomic weapons, but earlier official statements had pointed to progress in developing the hydrogen bomb, which may be a 1,000 times more powerful than the A-bomb.

United Church Opens General Council Parley

HAMILTON, Sept. 10 (CP)—The 15th biennial General Council of the United Church of Canada opens here today for a 10-day session.

Moderator Rev. C. M. Nicholson, recently returned from Germany where he served as a chaplain with the 27th Canadian Brigade, will open the conference with a communion service.

He then will report on his two-year term and preside over the council until the election of a new moderator tonight.

Most prominently mentioned among the candidates is Rev. Denzil G. Ridout of Toronto, secretary of the church's missionary and maintenance department. Rev. Ridout has held charges in Brantford, Que., Montreal and Toronto.

Others mentioned include Rev. W. T. R. Fleming, Sackville, N.B.; Rev. A. Lloyd Smith, Montreal; and Rev. W. B. Williams, New Westminster, B.C.

The commission on church and international affairs headed by Harry E. Langford, a lay delegate from Toronto, may bring the liveliest debate.

The report says that the time has come for the Christian church to take the initiative for the establishment and maintenance of peace.

PEACE BUILDING

"Our communion believes that now is the time for a larger program of peace building by the churches. It should be done in a more public way and reveal that Christian bodies have taken the initiative. A vigorous campaign for peace will have the support of United Church people who believe that this area of Christian work and witness has been left exclusively to the Canadian Peace Congress and related groups."

The chairman of the leftist Canadian Peace Congress is Dr. James D. Endicott, a former United Church missionary for many years in China. A one-time advisor to the Nationalist regime, he later leaned towards the Communist regime. Recently he attracted wide attention with charges that the United Nations are using germ warfare in Korea.

Although Dr. Endicott no longer is a minister of the United Church it is expected that some delegates will demand that he formally be expelled from the church.

There were indications of unusually tight security around the forthcoming experiments at Eniwetok, in the Marshall Islands group.

NO FOREIGN OBSERVERS

The announcement specified that "only official observers of the United States government and members of the task force" would be present. This suggested that quasi-official observers, such as civilian defense experts, might not be invited. It definitely excludes foreign observers and the press.

At least some preliminary steps toward producing a full-scale hydrogen explosion already have been taken. In the spring of 1951 scientists conducted experiments which apparently included studies of the method of detonating a hydrogen bomb.

The force of an exploding hydrogen bomb will be a matter of estimates and calculation until scientists can measure an actual blast.

A first test of a hydrogen bomb probably will be made from a tower instead of an air-drop. Among other reasons is the size of any test device, too big and perhaps too heavy for present aircraft.

DANGER FACTORS

It is doubtful if observers of a H-bomb explosion would remain on other islands of the Eniwetok atoll, even though some of them are more than 20 miles from the "shot" islands.

In addition to the vastly increased area of blast and heat, other factors might have to be considered.

Some scientists think that the terrific explosion and the creation of intense heat might produce dangerous air turbulence after the blast—perhaps winds of super-hurricane force.

FATE OF TOWN TO BE DECIDED

WESTVILLE, N.S., Sept. 10 (BUP)—The fate of 4,300 residents of the Nova Scotia mining town of Westville will be decided in Montreal next Wednesday.

The Intercolonial Coal and Mining Company will be asked to comply with a Nova Scotia Mines Act and abandon work at Westville.

The company has worked the Drummond colliery in Pictou County since 1867 and is the sole support of the town. In the last six months, 350 men have been laid off with work limited to three shifts a week.

The company has been forced to curtail Westville work because coal reserves are running out. Westville citizens hope the Intercolonial Company will be bought by the Dominion Steel and Coal Company to provide their men with a secure future.

U.S. Has Exerted Bad Influence On Canadian Schools, Synod Hears

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 10 (CP)—The United States has exerted a bad affect on Canadian schools, the 18th Synod of the Church of England in Canada was told Tuesday night.

Canon R. K. Naylor, in an official report, told the synod that a three-year investigation showed the separation of church and state—and thus church and schools—was endangering the Christian teaching in Canadian schools.

U.S. education was basically secular, and its influence became more evident the "farther west you go in Canada," said the canon. The influence also was to be seen in the Maritimes.

"We've got to give up this idea that schools are a neutral place," said Canon Naylor. "We've got to get in with our Christian teaching, with our idea of God."

The schools teach "good citizenship with as little reference as possible to Christianity," he said. "... It was the adoption of the American idea that played the decisive part in our schools. This influence has been emphasized by the fact that our best teachers have gone to American colleges."

the Church of England that bishops are fond of wearing their traditional gaiters but not for traditional reasons.

"They're supposed to be spiritually minded," he said, but they wear the gaiters "to prove they also have a sense."

The gaiters are a hangover from early days when Anglican clergy made their parish rounds on horseback.

ENCORE—In Khatmandu, Nepal, six Swiss mountaineers were set off on foot today to make Switzerland's second attempt this year to climb Mount Everest. Led by Dr. Gabriel Chevally, they were to march to Nameche Bazar, at the base of the 29,002 foot peak.

WARNING—In Moscow Pravda warned today that when the West German army is built up by the Allies, it may strike towards the west—like Hitler did. Comparing the situation with that existing after the First World War, the Communist Party organ said the United States has allied itself chiefly with West German "revengers."

ENOUGH—Ten United States congressmen toured the Korean battlefield today and reported they found no critical shortage of ammunition. The congressmen issued a statement saying the ammunition supply is enough to meet the present tempo of the war. They are members of the appropriations sub-committee of the House of Representatives Armed Services Committee.

HIT—The United States destroyer Agerholm was hit by Communist shore fire off the eastern coast of Korea Sept. 1 while blasting Red front-line installations, the navy announced today.

One crew member suffered slight injuries to one knee. Only minor damage was inflicted on the ship.

Airborne Lifeboat To Be Demonstrated

MOBILE, Ala., Sept. 10 (AP)—A full-scale demonstration of a new radio-controlled airborne lifeboat will be staged in Mobile Bay Thursday, the United States Air Force announced Tuesday.

The push-button rescue craft is expected to be placed into general use by the air force early next year. It is designed to reduce loss of life in effecting air-sea rescues.

Designed to carry 15 men, the boat is of all-metal construction. It measures 30 feet in length and is powered by a four-cylinder engine. The craft is carried bomb-like under a B-29 and dropped by parachute.

Police Service Revision Asked

Streamlining Advocated by R.C.M.P. Commissioner Before Convention

WINNIPEG, Sept. 10 (CP)—Canada's police service needs streamlined revision and a voice in policy making, Commissioner L. H. Nicholson of the R.C.M.P., Ottawa, said Tuesday.

Police Chiefs Say Escape Disgraceful

WINNIPEG, Sept. 10 (CP)—The break from Toronto's Don Jail by four hardened criminals was described Tuesday by chief constables from leading Canadian cities as a disgraceful incident that may lead to the loss of more policemen.

Several of the police chiefs, here for the annual convention, said the men would be taken but probably only after an armed battle.

Chief Constable J. Griffiths of Outremont, Que., said he couldn't understand "why men of this type were not kept under constant guard."

Chief W. H. Mulligan of Vancouver also said he thought men committed for murder should be kept under special guard, especially when they have escaped on previous occasions.

One man who would recognize two escapees, Edward Boyd and Leonard Jackson, was Chief Constable Clarence Wideman of Markham, Ont., only 15 miles from Don Jail.

Both Boyd and Jackson served under Wideman, who was a sergeant in the Royal Regiment of Canada.

"I took Jackson under my wing for five months when we were in Iceland," he said. "He was a good-looking lad. Shy, he would often blush or hang his head when spoken to."

"It could be that he has been led on by Boyd, who was a rough customer. Even in those days, he was always in and out of the 'digger'."

"Incidentally," Chief Wideman said, "Col. Hedley Basher, deputy minister of penitentiaries, who now leads the hunt for the criminals, was officer commanding the battalion that included Boyd and Jackson."

Lack of Quorum Delays Iran House Debate on Oil

TEHRAN, Iran, Sept. 10 (Reuters)—Debate on the recent Truman-Churchill bid to settle the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute was postponed in the house of parliament today because there was not a quorum.

An unofficial session was held today but the debate will be held Sept. 16. Though Premier, Mohammed Mossadeq has already rejected the offer verbally, the house must work out the official reply.

This morning only 67 deputies were present instead of the required 69.

The Anglo-American offer proposed that the United States would make a $10,000,000 aid grant to Iran if Iran would agree to:

1. Refer the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's claim for compensation for the nationalization of the oilfields to the international court at The Hague.

2. Open negotiations with the company on arrangements to resume the marketing of Iranian oil.

GOLF CHAMP WINS FIRST POLITICAL BID

SEATTLE, Sept. 10 (AP)—The new U.S. amateur golf champion, without ever getting into the rough, won an easy first-round victory in his bid for a seat in Congress.

Jack Westland, 47, of Everett, who took time out from campaigning to win the gold title last month, was far ahead for the Republican nomination for the House of Representatives in Washington's second district.

Overnight returns from Tuesday's primary election gave him nearly twice the vote of the combined total of two opponents. His November opponent is expected to be Harry Henson, the state Democratic chairman, who also is making his first bid for public office.

CANBERRA, Sept. 10 (AP)—Prime Minister Robert Menzies told the House of Representatives today the forthcoming "Peace Congress" in Communist China's capital will be just a fake, and Australian delegates to it will be denied passports.

Commonwealth Immigration Study Proposed by U.K. Labor Member

OTTAWA, Sept. 10 (CP)—A commission to study immigration problems on a Commonwealth basis was urged Tuesday at a meeting of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association by Hector Hughes, Labor member of the United Kingdom parliament.

Hon. Jules Koenig of Mauritius said the forthcoming conference of Commonwealth prime ministers in London might help to solve immigration problems.

The proposals were made at the opening day of the week-long conference, which today turns to business of the association itself. The C.P.A. annual report will be presented.

Sharp criticism of South Africa's racial policies was made by Seth Govind Das, of India, who said racial prejudices must go. He could not understand the "barbarous treatment" of colored people in South Africa, he said, and reminded delegates that his countrymen evolved over thousands of years from a fair-skinned, blue-eyed race.

There was no reply to his speech from South African delegates. Senator David Jackson, of South Africa, speaking before Mr.

The Liberals and Mr. Bennett

AS OUTLINED BY MR. STRAITH, the attitude of the Liberal party toward the Bennett government in the immediate future is sound and constructive. The Liberal members of the new legislature, says Mr. Straith (undoubtedly speaking with their full approval), are ready to give the government a full opportunity to govern. They will vote confidence in it and support it in the legislature so long as it does not attempt any radical change in the economic system of British Columbia.

Mr. Straith's statement clears the air. Of itself it would seem to assure the government a majority vote in the legislature and freedom from any chance of an early defeat. That being so, the last excuse for a sudden dissolution of the legislature and a snap election, as evidenced by Mr. Bennett, is removed. With the Social Credit and Liberal members behind him—and probably with the full support of the Conservatives as well—Mr. Bennett can go ahead with the business which he undertook to do when he accepted office.

No one suggests, of course, that this is a satisfactory or long-enduring situation. In due time another election, it is to be hoped, will end the present confusion and establish a government of one party or another with a clear working majority. But there is no reason to paralyze the work of government until that election is held, no reason why the Bennett government cannot undertake any policy it desires and assuredly no reason why it should be granted an immediate dissolution before the legislature is even given the opportunity to express its will.

Much will depend, if and when the legislature meets, on the kind of policies that the government introduces. There is nothing so far to suggest that the government intends any radical change in the economic system. On the contrary, Social Credit as a theory stands on the extreme right wing of politics, even to the right of the Conservative party, which it now seems to be in process of permanently absorbing. Mr. Bennett himself and some of his colleagues are Conservatives in disguise and a basic change in the economic system is the last thing they desire. Precisely what they do desire, in terms of concrete policy, has never been indicated to the people. The policy is unknown outside the cabinet chamber if, indeed, it is known there.

It is hardly to be supposed, therefore, that the government will introduce policies which the Liberal and Conservative parties cannot accept in preference to a government defeat and the worse confusions of another quick election.

In politics no party ever has the chance to follow a perfect course. It can never hope for more than the best possible compromise. Usually it must choose the lesser of several evils. The Liberal party thus may object to some of the policies of the present government but can honestly accept them to avoid a breakdown in government itself and a premature, inconclusive election.

This attitude the public will thoroughly understand and, when the time comes for the public to judge, the Liberal party can advocate its own policies. They will not be damaged and may well be strengthened by the behavior of the present government. At all events, the government is equally entitled and obligated to get ahead with its business and, by a clear announcement of intention, to end the present enervating doubt and bewilderment in the public mind.

We Are Growing Older

THE POPULATION OF A COUNTRY cannot be judged alone by total numbers. Its age also is important. It is good news, therefore, that the average Canadian today is a little younger than he was a few years ago. But unfortunately this youthful trend is not likely to continue long. Soon we shall be getting older again.

About a decade ago, in 1921, 6.7 per cent of our population was over 65 years of age. Last year this figure rose to 7.6 per cent. Now it seems to be dropping somewhat (though the latest figures are not complete) as a result of a high birth rate and the substantial immigration of young people into the country.

However, since the depression years greatly reduced the birth rate, the people born then and now reaching the age of marriage will be relatively small in number and we may thus expect before long a period of relatively low birth rate. Also, if the pressure groups attempting to reduce immigration are successful, we may lose another source of young Canadians.

All this will vitally affect the running costs of Canadian society. Young people can support themselves. Old people, unable to produce the goods they consume, must always be a direct or indirect cost to the active producers.

At present we are approaching this matter in the worst possible way by preventing old people from supporting themselves even if they are in good health and eager to work. By a few higher juncos we compel most workers to retire at the age of 65 or less on the remarkable assumption that their absence from production somehow will enrich the nation, which actually is impoverished thereby. By this interesting system we are making sure that the aged shall be as costly to society and as unhappy in their own lives as possible.

The human injustice of the present arrangements are their worst feature but they have large economic effects on the nation as a whole. The situation of Britain, an older country than Canada, illustrates the costs involved. In 1900 there were 10 British people of pensionable age for every 100 people actively at work—that is, men over 65 and women over 60. Today there are 20 pensionable people for every 100 workers and in a generation or less there will be 30.

These are staggering figures for any government to contemplate—almost a third of the adult population potentially unproductive and dependent on the production of the remainder—and this in a period when Britain must produce more if it is to survive as a great power.

In Canada we are not approaching such figures yet but inevitably our population will age, on average, as medical science prolongs life, as we cease to be a nation of young immigrants from other lands. We have gone a long way, with our universal old age pension system, to provide for the aged when they cannot work but we still pursue the economic folly and the human injustice of discouraging them from the work which would make them happy, increase the nation's wealth and reduce the burden of age now borne by all the active workers.

All our governments talk about this problem but so far they have done little to solve it. In British Columbia we have a new government, most of its members young in politics and in age. Such a government would earn credit for itself if it were to set an example to industry by refusing to dismiss its civil servants at the age of 65, when they are in good health and anxious to continue working, if it would employ active men and women in middle age when they have the necessary qualifications.

It is true that such a policy would require some revision in the existing pension system, because persons entering the civil service in middle age could not build up as large pensions as those who enter younger and work longer. Such a revision is not insoluble and would be a small price to pay if we could end the economic waste and human misery of the present system of premature retirement.

A Community's Appreciation

IT WAS COMPLETELY CHARACTERISTIC of Margaret Clay, retiring city librarian, to use a portion of her time before assembled delegates to the Pacific Northwest Library Association to express appreciation for the help, co-operation and friendship she had received from colleagues, councils and library boards. It was of the same pattern that she should wish for those young in the profession the same loyal support she had received from her staff.

That is part of the nature of Margaret Clay. It is one of the personality factors which have contributed largely to the successful operation of the Victoria Public Library. It is her sincere belief that the institution has progressed as it has, has won the public support, accorded it and demonstrated in the recent major expansion of the building, because so many people have assisted in the job of serving the reading public of this area. If the thought has occurred to her that her leadership, her unfailing patience, her courtesy and her honesty have been the focal points around which such co-operative action has rallied, she has kept that thought a secret.

It is, however, no secret to those who have worked with her or have enjoyed the service she has given the public. The Pacific Northwest Library Association's award of an honorary life membership in that body is but one of the honors which attest the appreciation in which she is held. Her membership on innumerable committees, both of a professional nature and for public service, bear further evidence to a general appreciation of her capabilities.

During her term as librarian Miss Clay has faced many difficulties. The accommodation provided for the library and its staff was for years thoroughly inadequate. She fought long and energetically for something better before she and those supporting the library succeeded in their crusade.

As she nears the end of a career that has enriched Greater Victoria, many compliments will be paid to her. Margaret Clay will attempt to dodge them. Again that is her nature. But in this instance they will find their mark.

Quick Punch to the Pocket

THE PENALTIES FIXED BY MAGISTRATE H. C. Hall, against two young men for rowdiness on downtown streets seem admirably suited to their misdeeds.

Both pleaded guilty to creating a nuisance by fighting in the 600 block, Yates Street. Each was assessed a $15 fine. The punishment is not crippling, but it should discourage such conduct in future.

Conceivably the two young men concerned felt they had a grievance which could best be settled by fists. There are places suitably equipped for such settlements, with padded gloves provided. Had they made use of such accommodation the two concerned might have punched each other in the head to their hearts' content. Then, had they been so minded, they could have shaken hands and walked away in the time-honored fashion of those many little fellows in British public school stories.

Instead the pair chose Yates Street. Their performance was unseemly. The police intervened. Now each of the combatants has purchased $15 worth of wisdom—which should be impressive to them; and valuable to any others who might have harbored similar designs of public display.

Chips

By DAVID BROCK

Brock

AS MOST of you know by now, there is a substance (sold by various trade names) called monosodium glutamate. It has the funny trick of bringing out flavors in a great variety of foods. A biochemist told me that either this is pure imagination or it merely stimulates the taste buds, as common salt does. I am sure he is wrong. We naturally salt macaroni each time we cook it. But when my wife forgets to put m.s.g. in the macaroni, as well as the common table salt, I invariably ask what's wrong with the macaroni.

That seems a good enough test, without going into the elaborate controlled experiments the biochemist wants me to make. . . . he wants me to give six people six unlabeled dishes each and let him know the results.

Also, the big companies that make canned soups buy great big drums of this stuff, and they don't advertise the use of m.s.g., they are not buying it to show off or to kid the public. Their chefs are convinced that it brings out flavors.

WELL, I was asking another scientist what he thought about filling the old body with small doses of m.s.g. (The first scientists saw no harm in it, but no use in it.) This second chap said he is leery of all new chemicals consumed by man. We have so many forced on us in prepared foods, and by the doctors, and even in the air we breathe, he doesn't add any extra ones deliberately. Besides, he said, the leading brand of m.s.g. advertises that it makes food flavors sing. He said there is far too much music with our meals already.

DEMOCRACY AT WORK

SOME of the children along our street started an army during the summer. It soon broke up, due to squabbles among its many Field Marshals. (Sounds very lifelike, at that.) But it was fun while it lasted. One day I overheard a new boy trying to enlist at Barracks 12. (It was called Barracks 12 to distinguish it from the only other establishment, Barracks 14.) He was told he could start as a cadet, with every prospect of speedy promotion to private. This annoyed him considerably. He said he didn't see why he couldn't start off as a Field Marshal "same as anybody else."

It sticks in my mind that I have heard of conversations very like this in employment offices. Of course, there is another side to this refusal to start at the bottom. To make a trained man start at the foot of the ladder is reasonable enough while he learns the general set-up of your firm. Provided the ladder is really there, and there isn't a traffic jam on the bottom rung or two.

BUT I KNEW a graduate chemical engineer who was asked to begin work for a huge laundry firm by driving a delivery truck. When he said he didn't see the connection between learning the business and delivering parcels, he was called a snooty little college boy and quite useless to the firm as a chemical engineer. I knew a graduate geologist who was asked to settle into a large mining and smelting company, and to learn the ropes, by removing the scum from molten lead. He didn't mind this, particularly. But after three months of doing this same job he began to wonder what the big idea was, and nobody could tell him.

AN EASY ANSWER

AT ONE TIME I used to write a good deal for a certain magazine. But the old editor who had been so civil to me retired, and there arose a new editor who knew not David. From then on, I was out. The blow to my pride was far tougher than the blow to my pride. Well, the other day I had a letter from one of the owners, who has been helping the circulation manager. He asked why I had stopped taking the magazine, after taking it for 10 years or more.

I didn't trouble to answer. Whereupon I got a rather peremptory postcard (handwritten or holograph on one side and Addressograph on the other) asking why I had not replied. So I did reply. Compressed as tight as I could make it, my reply was about 2,000 words long. But the gist of it was this: "I can't afford to take you until you can take me."

AMONG other things, I told this magazine that I could borrow a copy from the man next door any time I felt like it. I imagined that a good many of their subscribers passed their copies on (it is a world-famous and much passed-on journal), and I suggested that they might either make their contents a bit duller, to avoid tempting people to pass it on, or else get their chemists to invent a paper which would disintegrate a few hours after the wrapper was off. Most modern paper will crumble in a few years, but that's not quick enough. In his good-natured reply, my correspondent said that this disintegrating paper sounded just the stuff for some journals. But not all, because a thing has to be integrated before it can disintegrate.

SEASONABLE JOYS

IN ANOTHER week and a half the sun will cross the equator and it is high time I told you about my pal who was working in a shipyard. Buttoning up his sweater in the September dew, he said to the man next him "Well, we'll soon be getting to the equinox." "Oh boy!" said the man, with strange enthusiasm, and then added, "And walnuts and filberts too." You figure that out, I'm too busy.

Blood Supply

New York Times

These are the words of a medical officer, Lieut. Harold Schwartz, who has just returned from duty in Korea. "It has been discouraging and amazing to me to hear about the difficulties the Red Cross has had in obtaining blood. If you had watched the boys actually being saved from certain death right before your eyes you wouldn't hesitate a minute to give blood. Only blood could have worked the miracle. You can't let the supply run out."

Will we let the supply run out? Or, just as bad, let the quotas go unfulfilled? The number of donations to the Red Cross blood program has been consistently disappointing all summer.

WOOD SHORTAGES

Recently I had some wood delivered, supposed to be two cords. The load looked small, which I mentioned to the driver. His excuse was, it was dry. I paid him the full price for two cords and found out afterwards there was only 1½ cords with a lot of rubbish.

I tried for three days to see the manager about this, but could never get to see him, so I went and reported this to the police who said they would put pressure on the said firm.

To date I haven't heard anything further, so my advice to the public is don't pay for your wood until it is dumped and you are satisfied, and beware of these wood crooks.

LIME BAY

My husband and I are a young couple with two children. We go out regularly to the Mountain View home to visit with the old gentlemen, take them flowers, fruit, books, etc., just to relieve the monotony of their lonely days.

I wonder if the Mayor and the Council know what it is to be lonely with no money, no one to visit with? Have they ever been to the Aged Men's Home? Come along with us, we'll show you just what it is like to be old and lonely.

Why put those gentlemen from Lime Bay in the same position as those we have seen, nothing to do with their hands, nothing to keep their active minds occupied. They are the most interesting people to talk to, try it sometime and you will see that leaving those men in their comfortable little places at Lime Bay is the kindest thing in the world.

Have you ever heard of the milk of human kindness? Make their last days happy for them as long as they are able to do for themselves, and are in good health let them be, and when they are called to higher service, that is the time to do away with their little homes.

If sanitary conveniences are lacking why not install proper facilities? You can afford yacht moorage at $5,000, why not a few hundred for these facilities, if that is what is needed?

I would also like to suggest that more of the citizens of our city visit with our old ladies and gentlemen, brighten their days and you will come away with a glad feeling in your heart and a thankfulness that you are able to do this little good deed.

KATHLEEN M. FRASER.
1337 Minto Street.

ORDAINED

In answer to R. D. W. Harvey's letter, soul searching. Perhaps the Social Credit party's utterances concerning their policy relating to the United Nations and world government would not seem to be so irresponsible if it chanced to be that they are of the belief that it is a certain nation and company of nations who form the "ordained" United Nations, and who are to make up the nucleus of the "to be" world government—hence their hostile attitude toward the U.N.

Just how hard a core of fascism and reaction there is in this belief remains to be revealed—when all the manifestations and ramifications of "that wicked shall be revealed whom the Lord shall consume with the spirit of His mouth, and shall destroy with the brightness of His presence."

"Inasmuch As Ye Have Done It..."

Exchange

SELDOM in human history has a simple abbreviation served to express more tragic meaning than that inherent in D followed by P.

It stands for displaced person. It has been spoken with pity, with scorn, with indifference. It means waiting in one of Europe's camps for something called a quota. It means hoping for a place—any place in the world—to go to in order to cease being a part of what is known as the D.P. problem.

One thing worse than being a D.P. is to be a sick or old D.P. A displaced person who has somehow retained his strength can work. His chance of a haven is kept alive by the fact that he is a potential asset to the economy of whatever country will have him.

He knows that some day his number will come up and he will once more become a person with a place to be. The Jewish D.P.'s in Germany, for instance, have seen their number shrink from 175,000 to 10,000.

Left behind are those who are excluded from the regular emigration programs because they are overage or suffering from illness developed in Nazi concentration camps. Naturally, they were passed over in favor of the productive D.P.'s.

Now the American Joint Distribution Committee reports that the Norwegian government recently admitted an initial group of post-tubercular cases and their families.

Again, the Swedish government has set a precedent by accepting 25 tubercular persons who will need prolonged treatment before they can be up and about.

In giving hope to the hopeless the two Scandinavian countries have set an example of selfless compassion. It is the kind of appreciation of the value of the individual which the rest of the free world at large might well be inspired to emulate.

Getting at The Grass Roots

By JOSEPH ALSOP, from Kasson, Minn.

IT IS probably a good idea for this reporter to confess right off that he is not sure what was the real news at the Kasson Plowing Contest. The headlines, no doubt, will concentrate on the fact that Dwight D. Eisenhower and Adlai E. Stevenson made almost identical promises to the farmers of America. But was not the occasion itself, were not the farmers themselves, more notable than the speeches?

It was hard not to have this feeling, for the plowing match at Kasson and the people who attended it gave you a sense of the real glory of America—the phrase is not exaggerated.

The setting was superb—a rich farm, in marvelously beautiful, almost park-like rolling country. Here on a little rise that commanded long green-and-golden prospects, a magnified and more business-like county fair had been set down. Here, tens of thousands of farmers and their wives and children had come miles to look over the new farm machinery as well as look over presidential delegates. And the people, if you consider them rightly, were as superb as their setting.

A 10-year-old struck the note at the Methodist Ladies' excellent luncheon stand. He remarked that his hands were numb from testing a new tractor, and explained shortly, but with pride, that he had persuaded his father to buy a different make. "Now, I'm not going to the speaking," he added. "I got more work to do."

These people were hard-working, shrewd in their work and very prosperous—tractors selling for close to $3,000 were going like hot cakes.

They were shrewd also about politics, and very far from ready to be swept off their feet by anyone. "I guess we'll wait and see," and, "He'll get our votes when we're sure he means it," were the characteristic comments.

When you remember that both Eisenhower and Stevenson spoke to huge, patiently standing outdoor audiences, it is not exactly surprising that neither candidate set the prairies on fire. None the less, besides being an occasion to be celebrated, this plowing match at Kasson was an interesting political event.

UTTERLY DIFFERENT

Eisenhower, to take the speakers in their order, was an utterly different man from what he had been before his southern trip. The uncertainty was gone. He had hit his stride. He seemed sure of what he had to say. And no one who has traveled for even a few days through the mid-western farm districts can doubt that what he had to say was what the farmers wanted to hear.

Eisenhower's endorsement of high farm prices, the promises to extend support prices to crops not now covered, and the other points in the Eisenhower program, added up to "Me-tooism," naked and unashamed. But Dewey lost the farm vote because he was not "Me-too" enough, and who can blame Eisenhower for seeking to avoid Dewey's disastrous tactical error?

As for Stevenson, he spoke more soberly and with fewer flights of eloquence than usual, and he made almost precisely the same promises as Eisenhower. So that there were moments when one asked, "Wasn't this where I came in?"

Yet with his greater natural eloquence, Stevenson got perhaps a shade better response; and at one point he got what Eisenhower never got, a really big hand. If one can base a judgment on the accidental evidence gleaned by talking to many of these mid-western farmers here and in Wisconsin, the natural inclination of the farmers this time is to vote Republican. But every one of them is also conscious of his great gains in the last 20 years. The slightest suspicion that these gains may be taken away will produce a stampede of farmers into the Democratic fold.

Ups and Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"I SEE," said the Elevator Man, "where a doctor in France complains that 'people don't know what to do with their leisure.' And, he adds, faced with this problem, a lot of them turn to drink. Leisure's a problem not many races or nations or eras have been troubled with. Since the dawn of history, and a few bad nights before that, the big question facing man has been how to get enough work done so that he and his family could eat. When he was fortunate enough to solve that one and have a little bit left over he struggled to get clothing and shelter, and when he was really lucky he added a few comforts and luxuries. But always there was the pressure of getting the work done, always the knowledge that if he slacked off everything would disappear. This constant knowledge could in time break a man. The very thought that disaster would strike him if he slipped, made him slip. A mental hazard was added to the physical problem, which led to a lot of developments among humans, including ulcers and drinking. Going down!"

"But," said the Elevator Man, "the man of the 20th century has advanced beyond this. Work isn't killing him any more. His machines, his efficiency, his inventive genius have wiped all that out. It's his leisure that's killing him today. On every hand he encounters rest, recreation and entertainment and it sends him mad. Some of course, can withstand the onslaught. But many must drug themselves with alcohol in order to survive. Leisure is the enemy of the people. Nature has reached a great turning point in history. Man's struggle for survival is no longer against the environment, it is now against himself. Lower main!"

"The cure," said the Elevator Man, "has turned out to be worse than the ailment. The leisure we sought is more lethal than the work. We're like the fella who was told, 'Suffering from indigestion? Why, just drink a pint of warm salt water after every meal. What could be simpler?' And he gave the answer, 'Indigestion.'"

Saanich Deadlock in Police Wage Dispute Continues; Court May Act

Deadlock still exists between the Saanich Police Commission and the Saanich Municipal Employees Association over the recommendations of a conciliation board.

The dispute which may eventually lead to court action arose when the police commission refused to implement the recommendations of a conciliation board in favor of members of the police force who are members of the employees' union.

The board's recommendations which the Police Commission has refused to implement are changes to the police uniform and a pay boost of 10 cents a day for service stars awarded police after five years of service.

The employees' union has threatened to take the matter to the law courts if the police commission persists in refusing to make effective the board's awards. The union claims the recommendations are binding on both parties.

The police commission has replied that it is prepared to fight the matter out before the law courts. It claims the conciliation board exceeded its jurisdiction in recommending uniform changes and service star pay.

Under the Municipal Act, the recommendations of a conciliation board in dealing with police and firemen, are binding on both parties. Police on the other hand have not the right to strike.

STUDENTS, PARENTS PRAISED FOR SCHOOL OPENING STAND

Manner in which parents and students alike met inconveniences of this year's school opening was lauded today by Greater Victoria School Board through its chairman, Richard H. Reeve.

"We appreciate the way they met conditions," Mr. Reeve said.

He referred to the necessity of instituting a "shift system" and to the lack of accommodation, resulting from a strike in the construction trade. Some schools are not yet opened, as work was held up owing to the strike.

School Libraries Should Be Taken Over Is Claim

A suggestion that school libraries be placed under the jurisdiction of the B.C. Department of Education was made Tuesday by John Lort, librarian, Vancouver Island Regional Library, Nanaimo, at the Pacific Northwest Library Association conference at the Empress Hotel.

The maintenance and stocking of school libraries is now under the jurisdiction of local school boards.

Mr. Lort who took part in a panel discussion on children's libraries, felt that many school boards did not realize the part children's libraries played in the education of pupils.

A recommendation made by Miss Marian James, supervisor of elementary grades, School District No. 61, called for a compulsory library training course for school teachers attending Normal School.

Miss James said many school teachers knew nothing about children's books.

She said teachers should be taught how to select and present reading material to children.

Miss James, as well as other speakers, were in favor of central library system in schools as against class room libraries as proposed by the B.C. Department of Education.

Miss James said school teachers had not the "training" nor the time to look after books. Other speakers included T. W. A. Grey, of the Greater Victoria Parent-Teachers' Association, who addressed the meeting on home libraries.

Armed Soviet Troops Block Allied Patrols Despite Protest by U.S.

BERLIN, Sept. 10 (UP)—Soviet troops armed with Tommy guns suddenly reimposed their ban on Anglo-American army patrols crossing a narrow strip of East Germany today.

The move was a direct slap at Walter J. Donnelly, new U.S. high commissioner in Germany, who had protested against the ban Tuesday to Gen. Vassily Chulikov, Soviet commander in Germany.

Armed Soviet soldiers and East German People's police prevented U.S. troops in a jeep and two British motorcycle military policemen from traversing a 100-yard stretch of East Germany separating two points in the American sector of Berlin.

The patrols, en route to Allied checkpoints at Drel and Linden at the Berlin end of the super-highway linking the former capital with western Germany, were forced to detour over bad country roads in the American sector.

Donnelly also protested to Chulikov Tuesday against Soviet interference with truck traffic between West Germany and Berlin, but the slowdown continued today. More than 200 Berlin-bound trucks were lined up at the Soviet's Marienborn checkpoint awaiting inspection. Some had been waiting for more than 24 hours.

Donnelly told Chulikov that Soviet troops and East German police had prevented the Allied military patrols from reaching their checkpoints at Drel and Linden on at least three occasions.

'LEO THE LEADER' DRAWS MANDATORY SUSPENSION

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (UP)—Manager Leo Durocher of the New York Giants began a two-day "mandatory" suspension today in accordance with a month-old National League directive holding managers responsible for "bean-ball" tactics, which took place in Monday's twin bill with the Dodgers.

The ruling means that "Leo the Leader" will be sidelined today and Thursday while his red-hot team, now only four games behind the league-leading Dodgers, tries to make hay against the last-place Pirates.

It was the third suspension of the season for Durocher, who also was fined $100 by National League president Warren Giles.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

The lacrosse season came to an abrupt end at Vancouver Forum-Monday night, the same evening the Tyees were winning their first Western International League pennant.

It was a surprising finish for the Shamrocks, rated at least finalists in the league playdowns on the strength of their league championship success. But it was not unforeseeable after viewing the third game of the series here last week.

With blond Norm Baker out of the line-up, Norm Coates resting in a sick bed, coach Arnold Ferguson hobbling on a game leg, and the club riddled with minor injuries, the Rocks just didn't have the depth to go with their season's record.

Indians were a club that never should have been sold short despite their fourth-place finish and although the Irish at their best should have easily hurdled this obstacle, the club that went down to defeat was not the Shamrocks, the league champions.

But while the Rocks saw their Mann Cup hopes dashed for the third straight year, they went out like champions, battling to the last bitter second of a bitter and hard-fought series.

At the same time the Tyees were making history of a paradoxical nature.

On the one hand they were winning the league pennant, a feat never hitherto accomplished. On the other they had failed to win public support for their efforts.

Value Received for Honors Won

Many a word has followed another in the "Save Baseball" campaign this year, a campaign that was successful in honors won and value received, but not where all sports pay off—at the box office, for a variety of reasons.

Manager Cecil Garriott deserves the credit for bringing the Tyees home on top. There's no doubt about that. He moulded together an alert, heads-up club that played forcing baseball. He kept team spirit at a high level. He drove the players hard especially in the early part of the season and most of all he earned the respect of the players while doing so.

The Tyees that won the pennant were a well-balanced squad. They had a well-rounded attack, that despite the lack of a standout hitter, saw them lead the league in hitting as a team all season.

They gambled when the occasion demanded it, their defensive play on the whole left little to be desired, they won the games they had to win, and they never played like a losing club.

The simple statement that "The Tyees played to win" probably sums up the club best of all.

The Future Hangs in Doubt

What the future holds is anybody's guess at the moment. It is true that the financial problem is again a precarious one, but one that can be partly overcome in the final few days of the season. It is also true that wheels are turning within wheels over plans for the future.

Financially, the Tyees will break even on this year's operation, but the burden of past years' debts still hangs like a millstone round their necks.

With Portland's great assistance this year and the promise of a continuance of that support next year, baseball should be in safe hands.

It is to be hoped the game doesn't die an unnatural death.

No, This Isn't Upside Down

Jackie Price, Cleveland's one-man acrobatic show, will be seen in positions such as this at Athletic Park tonight. Price, rated tops in his own field as a baseball entertainer, has recently completed an eastern tour, where his act was reported an overwhelming success. Price does just about everything on the baseball diamond, but those who have seen him are unanimous in their opinion that he must be seen to be appreciated.

Vancouver in Boxla Finals

VANCOUVER, Sept. 9 (CP)—Johnny Cavallin's Vancouver Lacrosse Club won its best-of-five Intercity League semi-finals Tuesday night, defeating New Westminster Salmonacs 22-12 at Kerrisdale Arena.

The win puts Vancouver in the best-of-seven final against North Shore Wolves. The winner goes east in quest of the Mann Cup.

The top-sided victory was never in doubt after the first quarter. Boasting a huge weight advantage and a stronger bench, Vancouver took a 5-1 first-quarter lead and increased it to 13-6 at the half.

Vancouver's precision passing was their best weapon. On the 22 goals they were credited with 24 assists, high for the season. Scoring was evenly divided. Defencemen Denny Huddleston picked up seven points on two goals and five assists. Jim Kinna, Kenny Webb and Jim Anderson all got five points.

New Westminster's defense was at its lowest ebb of the season. Goalie Harry Preston had little support on the 41 shots fired his way.

BRONC BOSS WINS 20TH

Brenner Halts Lorino's Bid

By BILL WALKER
Lewiston 5, Victoria 3

Southpaw Ben Lorino of the Tyees gets a chance with Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast League next week, but it's doubtful if he'll be able to take along a share of the W.I.L. record for most victories in one season with that opportunity.

Rapid Ben went to the hill Tuesday night in search of his 26th win, but came out with his seventh loss instead, a 5-3 decision in favor of Lewiston Broncs. It's likely that he'll get only one more start before the season comes to a close Saturday night.

Manager Cec Garriott doesn't intend to use the league winning pitcher any more than that for fear of possible injury to his arm. Thus Bob Snyder's standard of 22 triumphs made last year seems reasonably safe at the moment.

Ben met his master Tuesday in the person of a Bill Brenner, a reformed catcher, who became the second pitcher this year to attain 20 victories. "Lorino was the first."

Brenner, who took up pitching last year after spending all his previous diamond career behind the plate, blanked the Tyees for seven innings before being nicked for three runs in the eighth.

Not a Tyee reached third base until that frame, successive singles by Lorino, Lu Brannham and Bob Moniz, a bases-loaded walk to Don Pries, an outfield fly by Grady Gladstone, and Chuck Abernathy's single accounting for the three runs.

The Broncs meanwhile, hopped on Lorino for two runs in the third, and singled in the fourth, fifth and sixth.

An error by Don Pries on Don Lundberg's ground ball started the trouble in the third. Milt Smith followed with a single. Snag Moore flied out. Jake Helmut walked and Butch Moran singled in the two tallies.

Artie Wilson homered in the third. Charlie Mead drove in Moore, who had singled, in the fourth, and Smith tripled home Brenner, who had doubled, in the fifth.

ACROBATIC STAR
Tonight, Lewiston and the Tyees meet for the final time this season and, as a special attraction, Jackie Price, Cleveland's one-man acrobatic show, will appear.

Garriott was undecided as to who would work the contest, the choice resting between Jehosiah Heard, still seeking his 20th victory and rookie Bill Bottler. Spokane Indians open a four-game stand here Thursday night, the final series of the year for both clubs.

RADIO NIGHT SET
A number of prizes will be given away Thursday on the occasion of radio appreciation night, the ceremony will take the form of a baseball players' sport quiz. Players will draw the lucky numbers, but the fan will not receive the award unless the player can answer the question directed to him.

Most recent acquisition of the Tyees is righthander Don Hopp from Portland, the 19-year-old righthanded pitcher, named the outstanding player in the Oregon State semi-pro league this season, joining the team Monday.

BLIND GOLF CHAMPION
HAMILTON, Ont., Sept. 10 (CP).—Nick Genovese of Hamilton won the Canadian Blind Golfers' championship Tuesday, shooting a 113 over his home Dundas Valley course.

Albertan, declined to say how much he paid for the horses at the Newmarket Auctions last April but did say Indian Hemp was insured for $35,000 and Royal Serenade for $40,000.

He said he thought "Indian Hemp has a good chance to win the international race" and that if the three-year-old stallion is "at his best, they'll have to run to beat him."

Both horses were taken to Belmont Park after their arrival, where they will be under the close watch of trainer Norman R. McLeod of Arcadia, California. McLeod will have charge of Indian Hemp at least until after the Washington race.

The four-year-old Royal Serenade will be sent to Longden's ranch at Riverside, California, for training. Bell hopes to race the mare in the New Year's Day Stakes at Santa Anita.

Cardinals Again Threat In Three-Way N.L. Race

The weary New York Yankees, stumbling along the rocky road to pennantville, are finding their paths blocked by revenge-minded former teammates.

The Yankees' lead over Cleveland was a skimpy one game today following Tuesday night's 5-4 loss to the Browns in St. Louis and the Indians' 6-1 triumph over Bobby Shantz and the Philadelphia Athletics.

Brooklyn's once seemingly safe 10½ game bulge over New York dwindled to four as a result of Tuesday's 7-1 loss to the Chicago Cubs, several hours after the Giants had man handled Pittsburgh Pirates, 11-6.

Brooklyn's woes were further increased by the rapid climb of St. Louis' "longshot" Cardinals, who pushed back into the pennant picture with a 7-5 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies that left them six and one-half lengths off the pace.

Two former Yankees, Dick Kryhoski and Clint Courtney, teamed up to bring victory to the Browns. Kryhoski, pinch hitting for winning pitcher Dick Littlefield, doubled off Ray Scarborough to open the last of the ninth. An infield hit and an intentional pass, sandwiched around an out, loaded the bases.

FIRST VICTORY
Scarborough's third pitch to Courtney hit the catcher to force home Ray Coleman, running for Kryhoski, with the winning run. It was four-time loser Littlefield's first win of the season.

At Ebbets Field, former Dodgers Dee Fondy and Toby Atwell proved the Brooklyn hitters with seven safeties. Fondy smashed a run-scoring triple and Atwell chipped in with a single that drove in one of the tallies in Chicago's big five-run, fourth-inning rally against loser Ray Moore and Joe Landerum.

Early Wynn reached his 20 victory goal for the second straight season as he pitched the Indians to their sixth straight triumph. It was Shantz' fourth straight loss in an attempt to gain his 23rd win. Al Rosen banged him for three hits to pace the tribe.

A dozen Giant hits, including homers by Monte Irvin, Don Mueller and Alvin Dark, helped Max Suront, 2-0, after the rookie Bill Connelly rack up his fifth straight success since joining the club in mid-August. Five Successive homers by Cliff Mages and Joe Ginsberg in the last half of the 11th gave Detroit a 4-3 victory over Boston. It dropped the Red Sox into fourth place.

Cincinnati and the Braves swapped shutouts in their twilight twin bill in Boston. The Reds Harry Perkowski bested Max Suront, 2-0, after the rookie Bill Connelly rack up his fifth straight success since joining the club in mid-August. Five

Football's 'Kiss of Death'

Wednesday Quarterback, a new feature appearing today, is in answer to the growing interest in the Grey Cup Canadian football championship game which has become Canada's greatest single sports spectacle. Lee, a former Winnipeg native and an ardent grid fan, will give his expert and fifth opinion of the national football picture each week.

After Winnipeg Blue Bombers' triumphant pre-season victories, over the east's vaunted Toronto Argos, Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Ottawa Roughriders, and the defeat of Montreal

Alouettes at the hands of Edmonton Eskimos and Calgary Stampeders, eastern scribes and football moguls are freely forecasting "this is the west's year to win the Grey Cup."

This eastern clairvoyance can be construed by any westerner with all his faculties only as being "the kiss of death" to the west's Grey Cup hopes.

As any follower of western conference football will tell you, a western team has the proverbial three strikes against it before it even boards the sleeper on its Grey Cup quest.

The strikes, in order: (1) A comparatively long lay-off between the end of the western season and the completion of the eastern play-offs between the big four champions and the O.R.F.U. winners; (2) weather that usually prevents the west's team from holding out-of-doors scrimmages; (3) a train journey and (because of the lay-off) a fine case of Grey Cup jitters the day of the game that has grown to become Canada's No. 1 sports spectacle.

As in almost every instance the west has won the Grey Cup, (Bombers, 1935, 1939, 1941; Calgary Stampeders, 1948) the victorious team has stood out in the western conference like a sore thumb, being able to beat its conference opponents handily, going through the season without a single defeat.

For instance, when Les Lear's Stampeders won the coveted mug in 1948 it hadn't lost a single game all autumn and had beaten the opposition by hefty scores.

This year, in comparison, there is not a single outstanding western team to date. The Winnipeg team is currently leading the pack with four wins, a loss and a tie for a total of nine points. Saskatchewan Roughriders, bottom of the league, have won two, lost four for a total of four points. Really, not such a difference remembering that Saskatchewan and Edmonton have been without the services of some of their high-priced imports owing to injuries.

Remember, also that just because the Winnipeg club beat the currently red-hot Argonauts on their eastern pre-season junket, don't take the victory as true indication of the Bombers' strength. The eastern teams get going later and often at the time they play their inaugural games many of the team members are still being introduced to one another.

It may be the west's year to win the Grey Cup. But I need much more assurance than I have now from the showings in the western conference, especially remembering Argos' valiant 43-0 victory over Montreal's Als last Saturday.

But remembering the closeness of the scores to date, you can bet your bottom dollar that this is the best-balanced league in conference history and must be tremendously thrilling to watch.

See you next Wednesday.

Olympic Ideals On Carpet Again

By TED SMITS
NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Two solemn, conflicting ideas have been launched by leaders of American sports. Avery Brundage says we shouldn't bother to keep a point score on the Olympic Games. Douglas Roby says we better buckle down and come up with a better team in 1956 or Russia will beat us.

European Tour Planned For Joe—When He Wins

By British United Press

Heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott's manager is looking past the Rocky Marciano fight to a foreign tour for the titleholder. Manager Felix Bocchicchio says Walcott will leave for Europe two weeks after the Philadelphia date with Marciano on Sept. 23. Speaking confidentially—and assuming the champ retains his crown—Bocchicchio says Walcott will box in several European countries and Latin America.

"We hope," says the manager, "his foreign tour will be climaxed by a title defence against Johnny Williams of England at London next June."

According to Bocchicchio, when Walcott beats Marciano he will have run out of American contenders who would be good drawing cards.

Despite the manager's confidence, Jersey Joe intensified his training Tuesday at Pleasantville, New Jersey. Walcott, who has been working out with lighter spar-mates, took on a heavy-weight—Burt Whitehurst of Baltimore—for the first time today.

Whitehurst, who has won 10 straight fights as a pro, gave the champion plenty of competition in the one round they sparred.

Veteran manager Dan Morgan watched Jersey Joe's workouts with Whitehurst and three others, then picked the champ to knock out Marciano.

"Joe knows too much and hits too hard for Marciano," says

Morgan. "Rocky still is very amateurish."

A slightly different opinion was voiced by Jack Dempsey at the Marciano camp in Ferndale, New York. The former champion declined making a prediction because he has not yet seen Walcott in training.

But Dempsey says Marciano is improving. "For one thing," says Dempsey, "Rocky has developed a right and he's moving closer to his opponents."

Meet Legion In Exhibition

Getting an early start in defense of their Pacific Coast Soccer League championship, Victoria United will hold their second pre-season exhibition game Thursday night.

They will meet Canadian Legion of the Victoria and District Football Association at 7. United will have most of their regular players but will insert several newcomers into the lineup to give them a chance to exhibit their wares.

Bill McAllister will be in goal with Bill Hope and Joe Robbins at fullbacks. Harry Caruthers will centre the half-line with Bill Jobson and Norm Dickie. On the forward line Cedric Robb and Alex Stewart will be at outside, Jack Robbins and Bernie Clarkson at insides and Wally Milligan at centre. Timmy Walker will be utility player.

Member of Press Party Sets High Target for Annual Tuna Tourney

WEDGEPORT, N.S., Sept. 10 (CP)—Fair weather and near-record pre-competition catches favored the start of the ninth international tuna tournament here today as six teams in a fleet of stout Cape Island boats tossed in the white water of Soldier's Rip fishing ground at the opening of the world series of big game fishing.

Tuesday night the teams representing Brazil, the British Commonwealth, Cuba, Mexico, United States and Venezuela gathered at a cocktail party and discussed the fish that cost them up to $50 a pound to land. The cost estimate for the wealthy sportsmen is figured on the basis of the total expense that goes into an expedition to this lucrative fishing hole in the North Atlantic.

A member of the press party gave the competitors something to shoot at Tuesday by landing an 813-pounder after a two-hour fight. The catch was not far short of the 871-pound record for the tournament.

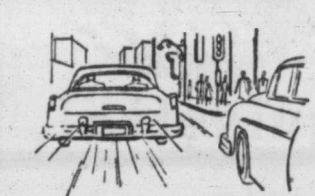

The big kill went to magazine man Rodman K. Tilt of Mount Kisco, N.Y. His biggest previous fish was an eight-foot sailfish (they don't go by weight) off the Florida coast. He had fished from the crack of dawn and had made his last drift or troll when he asked for "just one more try."

And it was at the end of the bonus run when he was starting to pull in his line discolored by the big bluefin hit with the impact of a torpedo. Rod Tilt's eyes sparkled as he told the story.

"He ran out with 400 feet of line and then did acrobatics for two hours. He made a dozen leaps in the air and I had him close to shore once but he ran to sea again and sounded. He pulled the boat along like an express train but after nearly two hours I brought him to gaff." What a fight. What a fish.

Montreal Dominates All-Stars

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—The pennant-winning Montreal Royals, as expected, dominated the International League's 1952 all-star team.

Five Royals made the team selected by the league's baseball writers with second baseman Junior Gilliam, voted the league's most valuable player, capturing the most votes, 32 out of a possible 33.

Here's the team: Manager, Bruno Betzel, Syracuse; first baseman, Ed Stevens, Toronto; second baseman, Junior Gilliam, Montreal; third baseman, Don Richmond, Rochester; shortstop, Jim Pendleton, Montreal; outfielders, Carm Mauro, Montreal; Harry Walker, Rochester, and Roy Weatherly, Baltimore; right-handed pitcher, Bob Keegan, Syracuse; left-handed pitcher, Mal Mallette, Montreal; catcher, Charley Thompson, Montreal.

TORONTO, Sept. 10 (BUP)—Forwards Danny Lewicki and Ray Timmer of the N.H.L. Toronto Maple Leafs were named out to the Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League today and will report for training Sept. 15 at Niagara Falls.

Three Teams in Junior Grid Loop

Three teams are currently hitting the practice fields in preparation for the 1952 Canadian football season in Victoria.

The Victoria Junior Canadian Football League is losing two of last year's teams but gaining one new entry for the season scheduled to open September 20.

Whitneys and Oak Bay Goblins were not able to re-enter this year because the majority of their players are over age. However, Goblins are practicing and may play a series of exhibition games with the league.

The new entry is the Royal Canadian Navy. They will be coached by Eric Crone and Bert Nelson and are rumored to have a powerful team.

Royal Roads, defending champions for the past two years, will be coached by Flt. Lieut. Frank Campbell. Padre Ivan Edwards, who coached the service school to two straight city and playoff championships, is no longer at the school.

Ray Mitchell, well known as a player a few years ago, returns to coach the Vampires for his third season. His club has been working out for two months.

All games will be played on Saturday this year and games in the city will all be played at Heywood Avenue.

The teams have indicated that they hope to bring in teams from the Mainland and from the United States for exhibition games this season. Royal Roads hope to bring the University of British Columbia Thunderbirds of the Evergreen Conference to Victoria.

Ralph Petersen, league manager, has issued an appeal to former players to assist as referees, linemen and in other official capacities during games.

IT'S MAJOR ZATOPEK NOW

VIENNA, Sept. 10 (AP)—It's Major Emil Zatopek now.

The great Czech runner finally got his expected army promotion, Radio Prague reported Tuesday. Zatopek, a triple winner in the recent Helsinki Olympic Games, was only a captain then.

In 1948, after Emil the Great set an Olympic record in winning the 10,000-metre run at London, he was promoted from 2nd lieutenant to lieutenant.

CALL POLICE

If Man Accosts Children

Somewhere at large in Victoria is a man whose twisted mind leads him to molest children.

This week a girl of eight and a boy of 11 were accosted by a man who made suggestions of indecencies to them. In both instances the descriptions were similar enough to convince police the culprit was the same man.

Apparently he does not confine his activities to one district. One of the complaints came from Stadacona Park, the other from the vicinity of Bay and Turner Streets.

Reporting the crimes, Police Chief John Blackstock said parents can safeguard children and help police by losing no time in notifying them of such incidents.

If police can get on the scene at once, he said, there is much better chance of tracing the man concerned.

BEAR-RAISING EXPERIENCE

Port Alberni Man Meets Mother, Cub Face to Face

PORT ALBERNI, Sept. 10.—Teacher-alpinist Ralph Rosseau of this city has just revealed a bear-raising experience he had last week-end on Mount Arrowsmith.

Rosseau, who is principal of the Port Alberni elementary school, is an enthusiastic outdoorsman and spends most of his week-ends in the hills. He knows the Arrowsmith country like the back of his hand.

While making his way through a heavily wooded section of the mountain on his most recent trip, Rosseau came face to face with a mother bear and her cub.

He met the two after jumping off a windfall. He landed only about two feet away from the two animals, startling them as well as himself.

"It was dark and visibility was poor," he relates. "But for a few moments I thought I was surrounded by at least 20 bears."

The mother bear jumped to her feet and Rosseau jumped over another windfall and high-tailed it down the mountain, without waiting to see what the animal would do next.

Party Trying Sproat-Kennedy Lake Route Claims Road Feasible Plan

PORT ALBERNI, Sept. 10.—John Squire, C.C.F. M.L.A. elect for Alberni, said today he saw considerable difficulty making its way, but blamed this on heavy bush and wet weather.

The hikers maintain the route would not offer any real problem to road builders.

Lloyd Smith, City of Victoria employee, who was one of the party, said a number of bridges would be required to cross ravines and gulches, but that the actual road-making would not be difficult.

Squire expressed the same view, and maintained the terrain was most beautiful to see. He said a road through the area would draw thousands of tourists a year.

Of 'Vie sez Cec Garriott deserves a lot of credit for the Tyees' success.

I agree with this. Now I wonder if someone can arrange credit for the team—a good, extensive line of credit, including an easy payment plan for rent.

It has been drawn to my attention that Sude Lambuster, the perpetrator of a weekly radio column in this otherwise respectable family journal, has used photographs of myself in an effort to trap unwary subscribers into reading his stuff.

The pseudo-journalist (his name may not be Lambuster—possibly it is Dimiustre) used in his column photographs of both front and rear elevations of your Between Times.

I am pleased to inform Dimiustre (possibly the name is Sandblaster?) that his ruse was successful, far beyond his fondest dream.

The addition of my photographs to his column actually DOUBLED Rantaster's readership.

Yes, by ACTUAL SURVEY his readers increased 100 per cent!

They jumped from (him) to two (him and me).

GOOD ADVICE DEPARTMENT: To avoid criticism at all times, say nothing, do nothing, and be nothing.

OLD JOKE DEPARTMENT: Telephone jangles at 2 a.m. Sleepy soul staggered out of bed to answer it. Convivial voice at other end says: "I do hope I haven't disturbed you."

And sleepy soul says politely, "Not at all. Quite all right. Had to get up to answer the phone anyway."

CHEER-UP DEPARTMENT: Elderly man creaked into his seat beside me in the bus one day last week, and we struck up a desultory conversation.

"I feel like I was 70 today," he said.

"That's too bad," I sympathized.

"No it isn't," he contradicted. "I happen to be 80."

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT: A dollar still goes a long way—looking for it's dollar's worth.

VERSATILE CIVIL SERVANTS' DEPARTMENT: A picture of Elliot Street in the morning paper carried this caption: "The street runs down one side of the Douglas Building and is used extensively by civil servants."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

The armed forces are drawing from city police ranks.

City police commission today accepted the resignation of two more policemen, making five in all to leave the force this year for the services.

Constable John Birch and Constable Arthur Newsome are the newest to leave the force. Both are Second World War veterans and will join the R.C.A.F.

Permits for construction totaling a value of $3,073,113 were issued by the city building department up to August 31 of this year. Permits numbered 1,260. In August 150 permits were taken out for structures valued at $308,276.

An application from Philip B. Freedman, auctioneer, to rent a part of Prince Robert House for $160 a month with an option to buy has been received by Mayor Claude Harrison. Mr. Freedman said his application was on behalf of a furniture manufacturer, who seeks to use the auditorium and rear entrance for assembling upholstered furniture.

Harry Duker, president of the B.C. Automobile Association, said in Vancouver today a delegation of directors of the association expect to come here soon to talk over with Premier W. A. C. Bennett the possibilities of a $10 license fee for motor car owners.

Duker said "the association is doing everything in its power to bring about the $10 license fees, and we feel because of previous statements made by the premier that he will give us his full cooperation."

A 38-year-old English widow with two children wrote Mayor Claude Harrison today to play cupid. She asked the mayor if he could put her in touch with someone with a view to marriage. She asked for a man of good principles, "genuinely fond of children."

City council has been advised to sell Prince Robert House and use the funds to aid in purchase of the former Times Building on Fort Street.

F. W. Woods, 223 Menzies Street, suggested the city renovate the Times Building for use as a servicemen's centre, city and school board offices.

Central Saanich Council has decided it will permit no business premises to be constructed along the route of the new Patricia Bay Highway.

Council arrived at this decision after arguments against ribbon development were presented by Councillor Willard Mitchell.

Seven slashes were required to close a wound city employee Harry Haire sustained to his head in an accident at the city garbage wharf Tuesday. Haire, who lives at 1710 Ryan, was struck by a large scraper that had been hit by a garbage truck. He was taken by police to Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Stolen property in the city during the months of July and August this year was valued at $6,034.

This was reported by police to the police commission at a meeting today. The report said that $3,665 worth of the stolen property was recovered.

Lost property reported to police was valued at $4,137, of which $1,049 worth was recovered.

Safeway, Union
Fight Goes OnChain Store Firm To Appeal Ruling
Of Chief Justice Favoring Workers

Canada Safeway Ltd. is continuing its fight to oust the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union from its zone office in Vancouver.

The company goes this week before B.C. Court of Appeal, asking that it overrule the decision of Chief Justice Wendell B. Farris, who upheld the right of the union to represent the firm's zone office staff.

The matter came before Chief Justice Farris in April when the grocery-chain store applied for a Supreme Court order, quashing certification of the union to act on behalf of the office staff. The certification had been opposed earlier by the company when the union's application for bargaining authority was before the B.C. Labor Relations Board.

CONFIDENTIAL JOBS

The company has argued from the start that its office employees are all employed in a confidential capacity. The T.C.A. Act, the province's labor code, specifically exempts confidential employees from union membership.

The Labor Board did exempt certain specific employees from becoming union members, but held that the majority of clerks and stenographers were ordinary employees of the company.

Chief Justice Farris supported the board's finding in a judgment brought down in June.

The appeal against his ruling comes before the Appeal Court Friday.

C. K. Guild, Q.C., is counsel for the appellant company. C. W. Brazier is acting for the union and L. H. Jackson for the Labor Relations Board.

COMPLICATIONS

Arson, Fraud
Convictions
Under Appeal

B.C. Court of Appeal began hearing the first case of its fall sitting at the Victoria Court House today.

Paul D. Murphy, Vancouver lawyer, appeared to argue on behalf of 23-year-old Peter Oscar Jorgenson, Vancouver, now serving three years in the provincial penitentiary.

Jorgenson was found guilty and sentenced to three years on each of three charges by Judge Ray Sargent last February in Vancouver County Court.

The charges were that Jorgenson: 1. Forged a cheque for $8,500; 2. Offered the forged instrument to obtain land and property at 1590 East Hastings Street, Vancouver; 3. Wilfully and unlawfully set fire to the property in December, 1950.

Mr. Murphy is arguing both against conviction and sentence. He maintained the County Court judge erred in trying his client on all three charges simultaneously.

He submitted in Appeal Court that using evidence on one charge as evidence on another was "against interest of natural justice."

Police Seek Hit-Run Autoist

A hit-and-run autoist is sought by city police as the result of an accident Tuesday.

Mrs. Jean Foyer, 1414 Craigflower Road, was badly shaken up when a blue-grey car whipped past her while she was crossing in a marked cross-walk over Fort Street near St. Margaret's School.

The car grazed her arm and the shopping bag she was carrying. Driver of the car continued without stopping.

Crossing in the same walk were Mrs. Foyer's daughter, Pat, aged five years, and Mrs. C. Rutledge, 845 Old Esquimalt Road. Mrs. Rutledge told police that one car had stopped to allow them.

New Pilot Boat
Enters Service
At Ogden Point

B.C. Pilot No. 2, the former target towing vessel Sphinx, went into service for B.C. Pilotage authority today after re-conversion by McKay, Cormack Ltd., Victoria.

The sleek, trim craft arrived in Victoria some months ago with an "ugly-duckling" superstructure, and in need of extensive repairs.

She put her first pilot aboard an inbound ship at Race Rocks early this afternoon.

$300 Fines Urged
In Wood Fuel LawMayor Also Wants License
Cancellation Provided For

Fines to a maximum of $300 and ultimate cancellation of trades licenses are called for in a new wood fuel by-law to be presented to city council Thursday.

Existing penalty is not to exceed $50 and court costs.

"It's drastic, but something must be done," said Mayor Claude Harrison today. "I receive countless complaints of fraudulent wood sales."

Ottawa Gives Approval to Highway Plan

Long-awaited approval from Ottawa of the Island Highway outlet north from Victoria has been received and work will commence immediately, Public Works Minister F. A. Gagliardi announced today.

The B.C. government had already approved the first section of the highway, from Douglas Street and Regina Avenue to Thetis Lake Road, but had to await Ottawa's permission since the road will be a portion of the trans-Canada Highway.

A contract of $825,000 was awarded to Campbell-Bennett Co. Ltd. of Vancouver, but cost of government supplies to be used on the project will bring the total to close to $1,000,000.

This first contract is for 4.5 miles of road. The right-of-way will be 100 feet, and paving will be 24 feet in width, with 10-foot shoulders to conform to Trans-Canada highway standards.

Letting of contract comes despite protests from residents of the area to be crossed by the new highway.

Liberal Council
Likely to Choose
Leader Sept. 17

Chief job of the provincial council of the British Columbia Liberal Party when it meets in Vancouver Sept. 17 is expected to be the election of a new leader.

The new party chief will replace former Premier Byron I. Johnson, defeated in the June 12 election, and who to date has made no announcement regarding his retirement.

At the meeting will be a delegate from each of the 18 federal ridings, provincial officers, M.L.A.'s-elect, and unsuccessful candidates in the June election.

Sam McCrea, party's first vice-president gave no details of the agenda when he announced the meeting.

CITY'S TOP HOCKEY FAN BACK

Symphony Conductor Hans Gruber
Getting in Shape for Rehearsal

One of Victoria's most enthusiastic hockey fans has returned to the city in plenty of time for the Cougars' new season, but he has a problem.

He won't be able to invest in season tickets because previous engagements will occupy Tuesday nights—and many of Cougars' home games will be on Tuesdays.

"So I'll have to join the rest of the boys and listen to the games on the radio," sighed Hans Gruber, brilliant young conductor of Victoria Symphony Orchestra.

"I wish the Cougars would play all their games on Wednesday and Friday," he added.

"They'd have at least one more customer—namely, me—and probably half the orchestra as well."

Mr. Gruber is a wild-eyed Cougar supporter, win, lose or draw, and, as usual, will see all games, which don't conflict with rehearsal or concert dates.

Today in Oak Bay Beach Hotel, he is fighting off a heavy cold, hoping to be in trim to face his orchestra at the first rehearsal session next Tuesday. The initial concert in the winter series of eight will be in Royal Theatre, October 6.

Mr. Gruber returned recently from a summer holiday in the east. He visited his parents in Toronto, test-drove new cars—automobiles are his hobby—and traveled extensively in the eastern United States, where he compared program notes with some of the leading symphony conductors.

He has high praise for the enthusiastic support Victoria gives to its symphony—but adds, speculatively, "Of course, we can always use more support—and with more support, could build a better orchestra."

Mr. Gruber is just a little re-

HUNTERS GIVEN
GO-AHEAD WORD

With the fire hazard in Vancouver Forest District listed as "low to medium" and moist, cool air expected, hunters will be able to take advantage of bird hunting season opening Sunday, Forest Service officials said today.

There was only one new fire in the district overnight, a spot blaze at the Cowichan Indian Reserve that was extinguished promptly.

Only 12 fires now burn in the district, guarded by 18 men. In the whole of B.C. 59 fires are burning and 32 firefighters are employed.

Police Think
Rowdy Chiefs
Under Arrest

Ringleaders of a gang of rowdies who have been making life unpleasant for pedestrians and storekeepers on downtown Yates Street are believed by the police to be two young men now under arrest.

Chief of Police John Blackstock told the City Police Commission today a total of six persons have been arrested and charged since his men undertook to clamp down on the after-dark cut-ups. He said the drive will continue.

The chief did not reveal the identity of the two now behind bars—and whom he believes to be the chief offenders—but he said they are there for serious offenses.

Victoria Archivist
New Vice-President
Of Library Group

The Pacific Northwest Library Association wound up its 42nd annual convention here today with the installation of a new slate of officers.

W. H. Carlson, of Oregon State College Library was installed as president. He succeeds Leslie M. Heathcote, Montana State College Library.

Others officers are: Willard E. Ireland, provincial librarian and archivist, Victoria, first vice-president; Miss Marion Bingham, Idaho, second vice-president; Miss Margaret Putnam, Washington, treasurer.

The closing session, attended by 300 librarians, was marked by a report of the inter-regional relations committee, presented by Mr. Ireland.

ASK
The TIMES

Q.—On the curbstone at southwest corner of Fort and Broad Streets is located a piece of concrete 30 inches high with a square top. What is it there for?—Mr. F.A.B.

A.—Concrete block protects high-pressure fire hydrant, which was broken frequently by cars.

Q.—What is the meaning of the word Gethsemane?—Mrs. T.M.

A.—Gethsemane, the name of a beautiful garden of olive trees spoken of in the New Testament, means "oil press."

Q.—Have been a resident of Victoria for six years. I like the city but the weather is too cold and damp. Is there any point on the Island with a warmer climate throughout the year?—Mr. B.E.T.

A.—Victoria enjoys the best average climate on the Island. Duncan, for instance is warmer in the summer but colder in the winter. Victoria's average rainfall is 26.91 inches as compared to 35.64 for Duncan.

Care of Skin Important To All Teen-Age Girls

By PENNY SAVER

Whether you've already started back to high school or looking forward to college, there's one subject about which you're bound to be an enthusiastic scholar!

It's skin care—more specifically young skin care. A leading cosmetician has made a study of young skin problems and she knows all too well that an adolescent skin can cause self-consciousness and misery in the teen-age girl that will destroy poise and self-confidence far into maturity.

Oily skin, clogged pores, minor eruptions, all a part of young skin problems, as well as simple acne and blackheads, are the problems you must solve. If you follow simple beauty lessons you will find that each of your problems has been solved.

Here is the formula: If your skin is particularly oily, use beauty grains every day, or only three times a week if your skin is average. You merely pour a bit of beauty grains into the palm of your hands, add a little warm water, and work the granules up into a lather. Then rub the paste gently on your face, in a circular motion. Take special care to look for blackheads and clogged pores around the nose and chin and forehead area, where the oil glands are apt to be over-productive. Rinse your face several times to remove all residue, and splash on cold water to help promote healthy circulation.

If, on the contrary, your skin is dry and inclined to be sensitive, substitute plus cleanser with beauty grains. A cream wash, soothing to disturbed skin, it removes dirt thoroughly yet ever so gently. It lathers like soap, yet is kind to dry, disturbed skin.

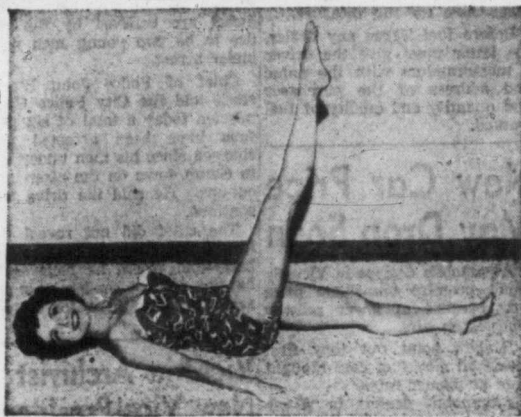

If you have any blemishes or minor abrasions, apply a bit of medicated cream to the spot and allow the cream to remain on your face overnight. A greaseless cream containing sulphur, calomine and camphor, it is recognized by skin specialists as remarkably effective for clearing minor blemishes and simple acne.

Most important step of all in every young skin treatment is the application of pasteurized face cream. Its rich, velvety ingredients pamper your skin to a softer, finer texture. This famous cream also does a quick and thorough job of removing make-up, while it encourages your skin to newer, softer beauty.

Prices for the skin beauty aids are beauty grains, $1.75; plus cleanser, $1.75; medicated cream, $1.50; and pasteurized cream, $2.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

This mild and effective exercise will do more than the exercise you get from sports.

Outdoor Sports Are Helpful But Not Same as Exercises

Any woman who wishes to remain youthful long past her usual age for aging should take exercise down the road with her. If she has neglected this for some years she should not play tennis, but she can swim and walk and play golf in a sensible way, unless she has some organic trouble which makes her physician forbid it.

The above are all wonderful forms of outdoor exercise which can be indulged in at any age by the normal person. However, I do not think they take the place of mat exercises, which use the muscles in a different way, massage internal organs, and do wonderful things for the figure.

Today I am going to give you two exercises for the woman who is of middle age and older.

MILD BUT EFFECTIVE

1. Lie on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor at your sides. Bend the left knee up close to the abdomen. Straighten the knee, toe pointing toward the ceiling. Slowly, lower the leg to the floor. Do the same with the right leg and continue, alternating left and right. This is a mild but effective exercise.

2. The following exercise is one which a distinguished New York physician gives to all his patients

Love Is the Only Reason to Marry

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

When a girl "gets into trouble," should she beg or force the man who is responsible to marry her? That is the problem facing the young woman who wrote:

(Q)—"I am very much in love with a man. Some time ago we let our emotions get away from us. Afterward we were both sorry. We are not wild, just very much in love. A couple of weeks ago, he came to see me and I was talking to one of my old boy friends. He has not been back since. Now I find I'm in trouble and am very much afraid. We agreed that night that he would marry right away if I became pregnant. I will not hold him to his promise if he no longer loves me. I love him very much but I have some pride. What shall I do? I'm desperate."

(A)—Do not let pride stand in the way of your whole future and that of your child. If this young man loved you enough to get you into trouble, he should still love you enough to get you out. It is his responsibility.

Call him or write him a note. Tell him you want to discuss the promise he made to you that night. He will know what you mean and if he is anything but a cad he will come immediately. From the way he behaves, you can quickly tell if he loves you or not.

If he does, arrange to be married at once. If not, release him from his promise and set him free except for financial help to see you through your pregnancy. Then go to your parents or minister and arrange to go away until the baby is born. This man must help you meet these expenses if he does not want to marry you.

At the moment his feelings may be hurt because he saw you talking to another man. But when he knows your predicament, his jealousy will vanish and he will rush to your rescue if he loves you.

If you have a problem about family or friend, ask Dr. Hurlock to help you. Write in care of this newspaper.

Says Mental Upsets Cause Child Ulcers

WINNIPEG, Sept. 10 (CP)—Mother can and often does give her children ulcers—by remote control—although it may take 40 years.

Dr. Edwin F. Peters, president of the Des Moines College of Osteopathy and Surgery, said during a medical convention here that about 76 per cent of stomach ulcers are the result of emotional disturbances.

He said mothers impart more fears to their children than any other agency. They may do this through excessive "don'ts" and by leaving the bedroom light on during the night. In later years, this may cause emotional conflicts which result in physical illness.

Prominent Authors of Young Readers' Books Attend Conference Breakfast

Five prominent authors of children's books were special guests at a Pacific Northwest Library Association breakfast, Tuesday morning. The early session was convened by the children's and school's division of the three-day conference. Miss Hazel King of the Victoria Public Library, children's department, was in charge of arrangements.

Autumn flowers decorated tables in the crystal ballroom and seasonal motif was carried out in maple leaf place cards. Breakfast chairman was Miss Dora Leavitt, superintendent of high school libraries, Seattle.

GUEST SPEAKERS

Miss Eleanor Ahlers, school librarian, Everett, Wash., introduced guest speakers. They were Katherine Anthony Clarke, Dr. Donald Dickie, Clara Ingram Judson, Helen Reynolds and Rodrick Haig-Brown. Among others at head table included Mrs. Haig-Brown, Miss Margaret Clarke, Miss Dorothy Haig-Brown, children's librarian, Tacoma public library, and Miss Elizabeth Groves.

Miss Groves announced the young readers' choice award. Based on a compilation of library reports from all over the Pacific Northwest, the winner this year was a story of a horse, "Sea Star," by Marguerite Henry.

All speakers stressed valuable service they, as authors, had received from librarians. Mrs. Clarke, author of "The Golden Pine Cone" and "The Sun Horse," described librarians as link between children and books.

Dr. Dickie, a writer of histories for children, said: "Of all the kind, hard-working, working-for-others people, librarians are the working-for-others!"

Speaking of her own work, she said that any history ought to begin with the lives of common people and record what is inflicted on them in the way of wars and politics.

Mrs. Judson, who has written over 50 books, described her biographies of Washington, Lincoln and Jefferson. Referring to the tradition of Lincoln's early poverty, she said: "Security isn't a cheque; it's a feeling of being at home—a feeling of togetherness."

Concerning children's library service, she commented: "A book is just a thing until you plug it in and bring to the boys and girls the dreams and the lives of the great men and women."

Mrs. Reynolds, who writes under the pseudonyms of Helen Dickson and Dickson Reynolds, has recently had her 12th book published and is now working on her 13th, an historical novel of Washington and Oregon.

"An author doesn't know his own strength until a librarian gets behind him," remarked Mr. Haig-Brown, adding that he never expected to find himself speaking at breakfast time.

His latest book, scheduled to be finished by mid-September, but slightly delayed, concerns the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and was instigated by his publishers. It is not a fanciful, red-coated yarn, he emphasized, but presents a true, undistorted picture of the force as it is today.

London Typist to Be First White Woman to Cross Desert Wastes

LONDON, Sept. 10 (Reuters)—The wife of British explorer and adventurer John Brown will leave her typist job at a London store this month to become the first white woman to cross the trackless desert wastes of Kalahari and Namib, in southwest Africa.

Mrs. Dorothy Brown, 30, will accompany her husband and another British explorer, Sebastian Snow, 23, on an expedition to see if water lies beneath the deserts.

"My wife has never been further from Britain than Sicily," Brown said today, "but she's quite unruffled at the prospect of five-months in tents in the open desert with only a circle of rope soaked in carbolic to keep off snakes."

Last year Brown and Snow discovered the true source of the Amazon River. Snow has just returned to England after completing the first source to mouth trip down the Amazon on a raft.

Active Woman Doctor in Toronto Finds Time for Home and Trips

TORONTO, Sept. 10 (CP)—One of the busiest women in Toronto is Dr. Elizabeth Wiley, who in addition to being senior assistant in obstetrics and gynaecology at Women's College Hospital looks after her own household and raises her young son John.

Dr. Wiley's life is different from that of the average mother. When she sits at home with her eight-year-old son she must make sure someone is near to take over if she is suddenly called away.

She's on call 24 hours a day. "Babies don't wait," she said in an interview. "You can't schedule their appearance."

She has been called away in the midst of preparing dinner on the housekeeper's night out. She has had to take young John to hospital while she delivers a baby. Sometimes she doesn't see the little boy for days. He's seven at night.

once told a friend that he would see more of his mother if he had a cot in the hospital. Dr. Wiley claims she is "too lazy" to count the average number of hours she sleeps at night but figures on probably five hours nightly. She usually is at the hospital by eight in the morning "if I'm not still there from the night before."

Afternoons she looks after her thriving practice, working until seven at night.

'WE NEED MORE MEN'

Appeal Goes Out for Enlistees In Reserves of 2 Armed Forces

By ROY THORSEN

"We need more men!" That is the cry today from officers commanding reserves of the armed forces in this area—navy, army and air force.

All units are far below maximum strength.

Reserve units have gone back into training after a summer-time "stand-down" and would like to see many more hundreds of Victoria's youth join them for an "easy grounding" in military service.

Those who have a yen for part-time military service (with pay) can join:

8 Anti-Aircraft Operations Room, Bay Street Armoury, Tuesday nights.

5th (B.C.) Coast Regiment, R.C.A., at the Armoury, Tuesday nights.

Canadian Scottish Regiment, Princess Mary's Infantry, Monday and Thursday evenings, at the Armoury.

40th Technical Squadron, R.C.E.M.E., at the Armoury Tuesday nights.

13th Field Ambulance, R.C.A.M.C. (medical and service corps), Tuesday nights, at the Armoury.

46th Field Sanitary Section, R.C.A.M.C., Tuesday nights, at the Armoury.

75th Heavy Anti-Aircraft Regiment, R.C.A., Wednesday nights, with special courses Friday nights.

No. 2455 Victoria Radar Control Squadron of the R.C.A.F. reserves training at Balmoral Hotel (Douglas, near Fort) each Thursday evening at 7.30 and Sunday at 9.30 a.m.

H.M.C.S. Malahat (R.C.N. reserve) at headquarters on Esquimalt Road each Monday night.

Regina Avenue Highway Route Protest Loses

Resolutions condemning the proposed Island Highway route through Regina Avenue were outvoted at a protest meeting Tuesday night at Strawberryvale Hall.

"Most of the people opposed were not at the meeting," said James Barr, committee member. J. L. Brown, most active of the protest group, said following the meeting that he will cease to oppose the highway plan.

"You can't protect people from their own foolishness," he said. A petition signed by 200 residents will, however, be forwarded to Ottawa, Mr. Brown said. It has already been shown to the provincial public works department.

Main objection of the opposition group was the planning of the new outlet through a residential district.

It also dismissed the government opinion that another outlet was needed for emergency purposes, by saying that the single road between Goldstream and the Shawnigan cut-off constitutes a more serious bottleneck.

Red Feather Drive Opens Sept. 29, Seek $195,000

On September 29 at 7 p.m. the annual Red Feather campaign for 17 welfare organizations working in Greater Victoria will get under way.

Its objective will be the raising of $195,000, the minimum sum with which the agencies can carry on the work of aiding the sick, aged, needy, and underprivileged folk of the district.

The campaign will open with the familiar porch-light theme, made famous in two previous years, but will continue until October 4 in order to give all the opportunity to help their more unfortunate neighbors.

With a growing consciousness in community service throughout North America, the committee hopes to see the Red Feather emblem become as well known and respected as the Red Cross in its field.

A novel plan to bring the work of the welfare agencies to the public eye is a window display contest in which all city merchants may take part.

According to Roy Denny, and Frank H. Ross, who have charge of the competition, merchants may select any one or all of the agencies as a subject.

The general public will then select the winner by the use of ballot boxes and voting forms to be made available. A certificate will be presented to the retailer securing the most votes.

LOW BUDGET
The Victoria drive will operate on the lowest budget of any community drive in North America.

Greatest effort will be put forward by the 4,000 workers who will make house-to-house and business office calls when the campaign starts.

Co-chairmen of the committee in charge of organizing workers are Ned Williams and George M. Lindsay.

PENNY AIN'T ART WOT IT WERE

LONDON, Sept. 10 (CP)—When the price of concentrated beef cubes went up from sixpence a half-dozen to sixpence halfpenny, a reporter made the rounds of various London shops to inquire what he could still buy for a penny.

He found:
A tobaccoist could only give him a packet of matches—not a single cigarette.

At a food shop the proprietor was puzzled but finally produced a small bread roll for a penny.

The candy merchant said maybe two humbugs for a penny... but of course a coupon, too.

At the chemist shop—three safety pins—but then they sold six on a card at twopenny.

At a chain store—three screw nails, three small curtain rings, a hair curler or a choice of back or front collar studs, but not in metal.

The reporter also ascertained that in 1902 a penny would buy £1,000 accident policy, a phonograph record, a book, saucepan, scrubbing brush, plate of wheats, a hammer, six pencils, ham roll.

Take Note, Girls, Men Get Scarce in Canada

OTTAWA, Sept. 10 (BUP)—The sad truth, girls, is that there's a shortage of eligible young men in Canada.

The Bureau of Statistics confirmed many a girl's suspicions today when it released cold, hard figures showing that while Canada still has more males than females, girls of 20 to 34 years outnumber men in that age group.

There were, according to the 1951 census, only 537,535 males in the 20 to 24 year group to handle 551,106 women of the same age.

In the 25 to 29 group, there were 552,812 males and 578,403 females.

The bureau didn't add advice to its statistics, but the bald figures obviously indicated that girls who want less competition in the field of husband hunting should move away from the big cities.

The bureau said that Canada has more females than males of 15 years and over in urban localities.

The bureau said that Canada has more males than females of all ages below 85 in rural areas, and more females than males of 15 years and over in urban localities.

Altogether, there are 7,088,873

males in the country, and 6,920,556 females.

OFFICIALS FUME

Small Boys Invade Jet Plane Base

TORONTO, Sept. 10, (BUP)—Air force officials were fuming today as two 12-year-olds revealed they had wandered about freely in a supposedly closely-guarded jet base here.

The youngsters, both unidentified by the R.C.A.F., bragged to school chums Tuesday after they had wriggled in under a wire fence at the DeHavilland Downsview air force station.

They said they had wandered about for two hours or more, looked at blueprints they hadn't understood, and climbed into the cockpit of a plane and manipulated the controls.

Guards caught up with them finally and sent them home with a stiff lecture. Letters were written to their parents as some slight damage had been caused to one aircraft by the manipulating.

Air force officers went to work, meanwhile, repairing the hole in the fence and generally stiffening other security measures.

This is off-shore by French's Creek, & the fellow with the rod & the handsome physique is Oak Bay Councillor Jack Rutan, a powerful swimmer & a keen fisherman. This guy in the middle I think you all know, Mr. Al Collins of the 6 for 1 show. I had my camera on my lap, so they didn't know I was taking this snap.

Three lines we had out, on mine a "Tom-Mack," and this was the one our Cohoe did smack. We all took a turn pulling him in, so each felt the thrill of his mighty fin. "Al" reached out with a fiendish laugh, you can see he's an expert with the gaff. Right thru the jaw with the hook, see on Al's face that triumphant look. The fish was still jumping, as the camera I snapped, in fact my face it nearly got slapped.

No doubt you will hear on 6 for 1, this fish Al gaffed, it weighed a ton. But it didn't, of course, as you can see, altho it is nearly as big as me. So I'm making up a question for his show, how many pounds is this Cohoe?? Listen this Friday, on our spot, in pounds & ounces, WHAT HAVE I GOT???

Cabinet Listens To Teacher Plans For Refinancing

A series of proposals by the B.C. Teachers' Federation to revise financing of education in the province was heard with interest Tuesday by the cabinet but no action was taken.

The teachers' delegation proposed maintenance of grants on a "per teacher" basis; diversion of 75 per cent of the sales tax directly to school districts; limited supplementary grants to districts where basic cost factors are high and assessments are low, and continuation of the present scale of grants toward capital expenditure, transportation, dormitory and boarding needs, and isolation bonuses.

The teachers supported promotion of local authority and responsibility, maintained, however, without placing upon local taxpayers an insupportable burden.

They criticized the system of basic grants established in 1946 as being logical and sound, but inadequate in amount.

The delegation was led by R. R. Smith, Vancouver, B.C.T.F. president.

WHAT A DAY!

What a misery it can be on those days when you are feeling way below par. How slowly the hours drag by when you feel seedy and sluggish and seem to ache all over.

And how unnecessary it all is, very often. Most times that dull, logy feeling is the direct result of constipation and kidneys not working properly. You need something more than a simple laxative these times. You need Kruschen Salts. Millions the world over have learned the benefits of Kruschen ... the salts that are like those in the waters of famous Mineral Springs. Acting in two ways at once, laxative and diuretic (for sluggish kidneys), Kruschen helps rid the body of waste matter. It goes right to the cause of that miserable, sickish feeling that constipation brings about.

Get some Kruschen today. Less than half a teaspoonful can make you feel better all day long.

W. Germany Agrees To Compensate Jewry

LUXEMBOURG, Sept. 10 (Reuters) — West Germany today agreed to pay $821,400,000 compensation to world Jewry to make up for Nazi persecution.

The agreement was signed by West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Foreign Minister Moshe Sharret of Israel. The ceremony was kept secret until the last minute, the official reason being fear of assassination attempts against the two statesmen.

Payments, to be made over the next 14 years, will begin as soon as the treaty is ratified by the German and Israeli parliaments.

Most of the compensation will be in the form of goods—ferrous metals, chemicals, agricultural machinery—and services such as insurance and freight costs. Some cash will be paid to Israeli purchasing missions, which in turn will buy German products, and to world Jewish organizations.

The largest sum—$700,000,000—is intended to meet the cost of absorbing the thousands of Jewish refugees from Germany.

The agreement should act as a shot in the arm for the over-extended economy of the young Jewish state, struggling with acute inflation and the problem of assimilating a steady flow of immigrants.

Israel declared in an appendix to the agreement that she will not advance further claims against Germany. Individual Jewish claims are not affected by the treaty, however.

CHARTERED life underwriter of Toronto, Alan Raynor, will address the Bahaj's in the Blue Room, 1303 Broad Street, at 8.30 Thursday night. Topic of his address will be "The Evolution of Religion."

Senator McCarthy Given Smashing Wisconsin Primary Election Win

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP). —Senator Joseph R. McCarthy, controversial storm-centre of the United States presidential campaign, Tuesday won a smashing primary election victory which he said endorsed his Communists-in-government drive.

The Republican senator's chief opponent, Len Schmitt, bitterly conceded McCarthy's re-nomination to a second term with the comment that in time Wisconsin voters "will recall their support of McCarthy in this election with shame."

The vote was one-sided. Late returns: McCarthy 332,883; Schmitt 130,436.

Seven other states also held primary elections Tuesday. They were New Hampshire, Vermont, Minnesota, Washington, Arizona, Colorado and Utah. Virtually all incumbents were re-elected.

As votes were being tabulated in these elections, the two presidential candidates engaged in a long-range verbal duel.

Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower said in Indianapolis that his Democratic opponent, Adlai E. Stevenson, was "using every trick in the book to get himself off the hook of the present administration's record."

Eisenhower called on voters to end government by "fear-mongers, quack doctors and bare-faced looters." Today the general headed for New York to prepare for a swing through the Midwest.

Stevenson, in San Francisco, stood solidly behind the foreign policy of the Truman administration. Warning of peril ahead, he outlined a program of action in Asia.

He said the free world's greatest danger is Soviet conquest of Asia, and he told a country-wide television and radio audience the best way to avert this danger is to give material aid to the new nations of Asia, to recognize their independence, and show them the U.S. is not following a policy of domination.

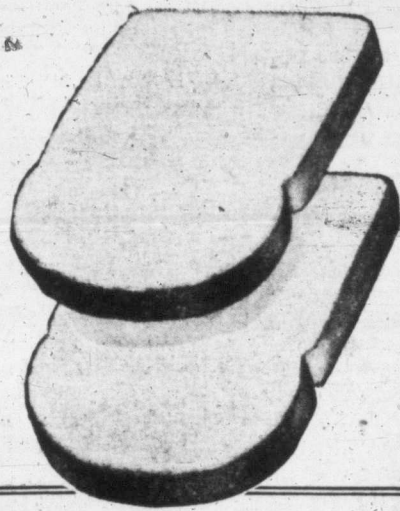

The Illinois governor then headed for Los Angeles, planning whistle-stop appearances en route.

President Truman set Sept. 27 as the departure date for a whistle-stop tour of his own, one designed to help Stevenson.

In an unprecedented move, the organized Democratic party of Texas marched lock, stock and barrel into the Eisenhower camp.

Now that we've reached our 40th Anniversary, I like to think back to 1908 when I won my first award, the British Bakers Certificate of Honour. Four years later I was in Canada starting our first bakery in a small building in Edmonton. From that humble beginning we have built over the years our twelve modern baking plants in cities from Victoria to Brandon. We have gathered together a big family of employees who work to provide the daily bread for so many, many thousands of other families in Western Canada and we have been favoured by the loyal support of our customers in every city where McGavin's Good Bread is sold. Naturally, I'm very proud that the original formula and baking knowledge which brought me my first recognition in Scotland in 1908 is still being used today by our skilled, experienced bakers. We thought the best way to celebrate our 40th Anniversary was to produce these two extra special loaves. We're sure you'll agree.

40,000 BELL PULLS

81-Year-Old to Peel 'Grandsire Triples'

MONTREAL, Sept. 9 (CP)—The man in Canada who will most loudly acclaim Queen Elizabeth's coronation next summer is mild-spoken Arthur H. Burgess, whose shoulders stoop under the weight of 81 years.

Mr. Burgess, who for 36 years has been campanologist at St. George's Anglican Church here, will sound a whole peal of Grandsire Triples to coincide with ceremonies in London.

He will ring all the changes possible on eight bells—a task entailing more than 40,000 pulls at the bell ropes and lasting close to three hours.

It will be the most exhausting performance of the 61 years he has been in his profession. He staged a similar display on only one other occasion — Armistice Day in 1918 — when he was a "youngster of 47." It was the longest peal ever attempted in Canada.

Still spry for his age, Mr. Burgess will take three days to write the music, transposing it first from the piano. He will also oil the bearings on the giant bells and splice the ropes tight to insure against untimely interruptions.

He has always given his bells personal care. When the hammers freeze in winter it is he who climbs up with a gasoline torch and thaws them out.

A serious illness which confined him to his bed for three weeks in 1948 was the only interruption in his long bell-ringing career.

Besides his regular work at weddings, funerals and for regular Sunday services, he "plays" the bells whenever the fancy takes him, usually to impress some new-found friend.

Bells came early into his life. His father was captain of bell-ringers at St. Saviour's Church, Bath, England, where he was born. At 14 he could ring one bell and at 20 he could handle a peal of eight bells.

He came to Canada 45 years ago after serving in the Boer War, during which he had a mount shot from under him.

Cerebral Palsy Case Needs Much Physical, Mental Care

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M.D.

Many children are born each year with an unfortunate condition known as cerebral palsy (formerly mistakenly called "spastic").

It is said there are in the neighborhood of 126 youngsters under 21 years of age with cerebral palsy for every 100,000 in the population as a whole. Of this number, about two-thirds are mentally normal, but approximately half of these are disabled enough in other respects to require special treatment.

An injury to the brain occurring during or right after birth produces cerebral palsy. The diagnosis can be made as a rule within the first six months of life and almost always by a year. It is important to make this diagnosis early because the results of treatment are better if started promptly.

LONG-RANGE PLAN

Children handicapped by cerebral palsy need both physical and mental care. On the physical side there should be a long-range plan set up by the medical advisers with the co-operation of the home and the school. Special muscle training should be started at the earliest possible moment in order to decrease the difficulty with movement.

Certain games are particularly adaptable for these handicapped youngsters. Exercise using music or verses and songs may be useful. Regular eating, sleeping, resting, bathing, dressing and play habits should accompany the exercises prescribed by the physician.

The educational and psychological assistance which can be given is most important. A calm, harmonious home life is desirable. The education should be given at the speed which the youngster can take easily and should be carried as far as is reasonable to go. A child afflicted in this way usually progresses at a slower rate than others of the same age.

Encouragement is important. The youngster with cerebral palsy should have some play with normal children. The speech can be encouraged. Although these youngsters need sympathy and affection, they ought not to be pampered or spoiled.

NEED SPECIAL SCHOOLS

There are now large numbers of nurses, psychologists and teachers who understand the special problems involved. Sometimes the youngsters have superior intellects but have difficulty in developing them satisfactorily in regular schools. Special schools and special attention have proved of enormous value.

He said that at present the employees of the three garages are paid $1.50 an hour for a 46½ hour week, while labor charge to the customer is $4.25.

Wilkinson also alleged that some garagemen also found they were unable to obtain parts at regular cut prices unless they belonged to the two automotive associations.

As Comet Starts, Talk Is Like Quiz Program

By SIDNEY TAYLOR

LONDON (Reuters)—The control cabin of Britain's record-making Comet jet airliner sounds like a radio quiz program before the huge plane takes off for one of its 500-mile-an-hour flights.

The captain sitting in the cockpit with a list of questions on his knee, begins an interrogation of the crew throughout the ship over the inter-com system. Before he gets through he has asked 302 questions.

The first officer reports on an external inspection of 44 points in the plane's structure ranging from the navigation lights to the flaps and landing wheel tires.

Next come 39 questions concerning the interior inspection—the condition of the top surface of the wings, the dinghies stored there, the fire extinguishers, humidifier and refrigerator sets.

A further 21 are called the "starting engines check." One by one the jet engines are started up with the aid of ground booster batteries. When they roar in unison the Comet taxis off—with five more questions about flying instruments and flaps.

As it takes up position and waits for permission from the airport control to take off, there are 15 more questions about trims and engines.

Then the Comet thunders down the runway, its flaps dropped 15 degrees for a 1,000-feet-a-minute ascent.

The Comet flies at an ordinary airliner's speed until it reaches its economic operating height of between 30,000 and 40,000 feet, when the much reduced air resistance enables it to travel up to 560 miles an hour.

To reach an altitude of 30,000 feet takes the Comet half an hour, by which time it has probably covered up to 350 miles. The pilot must start his descent about 200 miles from his destination.

In spite of its great speed, the altitude at which a Comet operates gives passengers the feeling that they are scarcely moving.

The flying time on the London-Singapore run when the passenger service opens up this fall is expected to be only 21 hours—less than half the time it takes in an ordinary four-engine plane.

And he said he told British police this a few months ago through an R.C.M.P. officer who visited him at the town of Sicamous in British Columbia's interior.

"Why in the devil they tie me up with it I don't know," he said in a telephone interview from Sicamous. "I think it's rather amusing."

The Canadian Press asked Mr. Seed for comment after a dispatch from London said Scotland Yard authorities believe he might be able to help them unravel the 13-year-old mystery of the disappearance of Mrs. Louise Lee, 77, of London.

It is understood in London that the police's renewed interest in the case stems from a possible court action seeking to have her presumed dead.

Mrs. Lee married her second husband, lawyer Charles William Lee, 73, in 1937. He died in 1940. She was previously married to a man by the name of Mitchell, who died at Margate in 1934.

Scotland Yard said tonight that the Lees separated by mutual consent in January, 1939.

RUGGED TRAVELLERS

CANADA HAS HIT PEAK BUDGET--ST. LAURENT

Social Legislation Pace To Be Curbed

By NORMAN M. MACLEOD

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 10 (BUP)—Declaring Canada's spending budget to be at a top limit even for boom times, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent indicated strongly today that the government proposes to call a halt to the recent rapid pace of social legislation.

"We recognize," the Prime Minister told a crowded luncheon meeting of the Canadian Club, "that the $4,500,000,000 budget we have this year is just about the limit even under the present buoyant phase of our economy if we are to pay for our services as we use them and at the same time preserve a general healthy economy."

He continued: "The services provided by government must be closely related to the general prosperity of the nation. And in considering any new proposal for expenditure, the government must ascertain whether there will be revenues to pay for it not only when the level of national revenue is high and the revenue-bearing sources are plentiful, but also if there is a lower degree of prosperity and sources of revenue are less fruitful."

"Its policy, in other words, must take into consideration the probable fluctuations of prosperity and of the national revenues over a long period. It is my view that the fiscal policies of the national government should also be shaped to counteract any strains that may appear in the general economy."

On his arrival in Winnipeg for what is his last speaking engagement on the western end of his two weeks' "good will" tour Mr. St. Laurent made his most definite statement so far on the probable date of the forthcoming election.

Election Unlikely Until Year From Now

With his usual cautious preliminary that "events at any time may make an election desirable," he told the Winnipeg reporters who interviewed him on his arrival at the station: "But I don't see how it would be convenient to have an election before a year from now, because there seems to be enough things on the agenda within that period to make it one of sufficient activity without an election being added to the list. After that period the outlook ought to be clearer."

In today's address to the Canadian Club, the Prime Minister discussed the question as to whether or not the taxpayer was getting value for his dollar in government services.

"The insurance premium we are paying for peace," he told his audience, "is admittedly high, but the risk is unhappily very great, and it is the risk that determines the premium."

People's Wishes Must Be Followed

In regard to social services of more recent origin, the Prime Minister laid down the principle that they were provided in response to public demand, and that the government's responsibility was to see that their administration was as economical as possible. He told the Canadian Club that no check was omitted to guarantee that the services were efficiently and economically administered.

"But," he said frankly, "no government is likely to reduce or eliminate services which it has the capacity to provide so long as the people want the services badly enough to be willing to pay for them. What is more, if we really believe in the democratic principle that the people should control the government, no government should attempt to do so, as long as the people continue to be willing to be taxed for the services they receive."

In earlier parts of his speech, Mr. St. Laurent dealt with the large surpluses which prevailing rates of taxation have rolled up in recent years. He argued that the term "surplus" was really a misnomer so long as the nation had a heavy burden of national debt waiting to be paid off. But he further took credit to the government for having estimated the business situation conservatively in each year, with the result that better conditions than had been depended upon had brought greater revenues than had been expected.

The fact that the high revenues had been the result of a higher level of business had meant, the Prime Minister said, that people had been left better off, even after paying so-called surplus revenues in to the treasury.

Vancouver Stocks Closing Prices

Quatsino mining stock was a feature on Vancouver Exchange in the final session with a jump to 69c after trading earlier at a low of 54.

Traders reported the sharp gain of Quatsino shares followed rumors of a large order obtained by the Quatsino interests, who are currently developing iron ore deposits on Vancouver Island, from Japan.

Other sections of the market were slow and featureless. Base metals, oils and industrials finished on the down side after a light trading session.

25-Cent Boost Reported Offer To Carpenters

By DAVE STOCK

An immediate hourly wage increase of 25 cents, and a further 10-cent raise in a few months' time are believed to be terms of the newest proposal designed to settle Victoria's summer-long construction tie-up.

Kathleen's Fate Rests On Divers

Plans for Replacing
Ship Await Talks

Plans for replacing Princess Kathleen, sunk in Lynn Channel, Alaska, on Sunday, will not come under active discussion by the C.P.R. until divers' reports indicate whether or not the cruise ship can be salvaged.

According to a spokesman in Vancouver, the company hopes it will be able to re-float the ship and make her ready for service.

"Of course, we won't know anything at all definite until our men, and the salvage experts, reach the scene," he said. "It looks as though she can be raised, we'll have to work out temporary schedules for our other ships on the Island ferry service until Kathleen is ready again."

"All our plans at present wait full reports from Alaska," Capt. Oliver J. Williams, manager of B.C. Coast Service, leaves Seattle by air Thursday morning with a party of surveyors and salvage experts. Divers are already at work, examining the ship where she lies on a gentle slope, with a slight port list.

The company's enquiry into the shipwreck continues in Victoria today, to be followed by a Department of Transport hearing in Vancouver, and a U.S. Coast Guard hearing in Seattle.

The statement of Liberal spokesman W. T. Straith that the Liberals in general would support the Social Credit government for the time being—and thus enable Mr. Bennett to call a session—has not changed the premier's stand for a new election, these sources say.

"He is quite prepared to risk a constitutional crisis in the hope of putting the political structure of the province on a solid basis with a majority government, intimates fear."

There have been six cases to date on the lower island.

The polio picture in B.C., however, is much improved, Dr. G. F. Amyot, deputy health minister, said.

Three new cases have been reported since Tuesday, bringing the total for the year to 279.

There have been no new deaths, Dr. Amyot said.

Social Credit Said Preparing For New Vote

Mid-November
Date Predicted

Political circles here are convinced that Premier W. A. C. Bennett will ask for another general election in B.C. within the next 10 days.

The premier, whose formal statements have been limited to the argument as to his right to ask for a dissolution, is keeping his own counsel on making a public declaration.

But it is definitely known that supporters of the Social Credit movement have been tipped off to get ready for the poll, probably in mid-November.

MUST MOVE SOON

Provisions of the Election Act require that to have an election by that time, the premier will have to make his move by about the end of next week or early the following week.

It is usually considered that 63 days is required between the calling of an election and the balloting, but this time can be cut down by 10 days or more if the voters' lists used for the June election are used again without revision.

Thus, the premier can still hold off an announcement on a mid-November election until the last week or so of this month.

NEW CANDIDATES

Meanwhile, the Social Credit organizations throughout the province are grooming new candidates for the contest. Some of those who ran unsuccessfully in June will be replaced by stronger aspirants.

The premier, his supporters say, is convinced he could sweep the province in a new election and increase his present shaky representation of 19 to 30 or 35 members.

The statement of Liberal spokesman W. T. Straith that the Liberals in general would support the Social Credit government for the time being—and thus enable Mr. Bennett to call a session—has not changed the premier's stand for a new election, these sources say.

"He is quite prepared to risk a constitutional crisis in the hope of putting the political structure of the province on a solid basis with a majority government, intimates fear."

Let's Death Plunge

Another death today brought the total to 30 killed in an explosion of a 110 DeHavilland jet at Farnborough, Eng., Saturday. Seconds after Pilot John Derry had made his last challenge of the sonic barrier the camera caught his wingless cockpit in its 700-mile-an-hour dive into the ground. (London Daily Mirror photo.)
